It's the Biggest Snowstorm of Winter

KINGSTON School children rejoiced, the gainfully employed with jobs to get to cursed the Snow Dancer, skiers celebrated, and the winter's largest amount of white stuff fell on Ulster County today.

Forecasts said as much as eight inches of snow were to be Ulster County's portion, although the storm, as an added fillip, might sprinkle some rain, sleet or freezing rain before it tapered off later today.

All school districts in the county were closed, and Ulster County Community College canceled classes for the day. A determination on whether to hold night classes at the college was to be made later today.

Tonight's basketball game at Ulster Community College against Dutchess was postponed.

Snow is a burden, but it always has some good points. The ski center at Belleayre reported that its slopes had received six inches of new snow, and it was still falling. Ski conditions were reported "excellent."

Anyone snowed in at least had lights to read by, and a telephone to call their boss to say why they wouldn't be in. Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co. said that it had experienced not a "single case of trouble" from the storm, and New York Telephone Co. said phone trouble from the storm was "light."

The storm began late Tuesday night, and state highway crews began work at 11:30 p.m. They reported state roads in the county in good condition.

County crews began plowing operations at about 2:30 a.m., and rated county roads "passable." Kingston Board of Public Works crews began salting operations at about 1 a.m., and started plowing at 5 a.m. They pledged to keep plowing until the storm stopped.

By 11-2 Vote of Common Council

Community Development Program Approved

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Community Development, the offspring of urban renewal, suffered through a difficult birth at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting with a number of aldermen suggesting the sins of the father might well be visited on the son if the lessons of the past ten years of city history went lost.

The debate over Mayor Francis R. Koenig's request for a 10 percent "downpayment" of $135,900 for planning and administration for this year's $1,359,000 program started innocuously enough with Aldermen Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) and Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) expressing rather mild opposition to Koenig's proposal to spend $90,000 of the money for administration.

Smith suggested the city had the in-house talent and resources to carry out the program, further suggesting that the $135,900 could then be used to extend the program.

Granada Builders approved, controversy over old City Hall flares up again. Story on page 9.

Quick took it a step further, or rather several years in the past when he pointed out that the city had administered its urban renewal programs originally (in the early 1960's) through the Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee, then headed by Frank C. Sass, a Seventh Ward Alderman. "We didn't have a planning department back then. We didn't have a code enforcement department," Quick said though agreeing that a program coordinator was needed,

Quick suggested it should cost no more than fifteen to twenty thousand dollars.

"I wholeheartedly support the (Community Development) program," Quick said. "But a one-person coordinator should suffice."

Sinsabaugh charged that urban renewal in Kingston had failed (downtown) for precisely the same reasons cited by Quick and Smith in opposition to Koenig's request for administrative funds.

"Urban renewal failed because of a lack of (initial) administration," Sinsabaugh charged, suggesting that the program floundered for several years and was righted only by a congressional investigation (by the late Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick in 1967).

Sinsabaugh noted that for reasons still not known the plan to rebuild the entire Rondout area was revised with the result that the Uptown Project came into being and Broadway West (the other half of urban renewal, as opposed to Broadway east), was allowed to further deteriorate. "They moved people from one slum into another," he charged.

Sinsabaugh then launched into a brief description of some of the buildings in Broadway West, some without central heating, some without adequate plumbing or willing, almost all in substantial violation of city housing codes.

As for allowing existing city agencies to shoulder the burdens of Community Development, Sinsabaugh charged, "The department heads can't handle the work they have now."

Alderman Henry F. Dreiser (D-13th Ward) further suggested the people now in the city's employ weren't capable to administer the new program. "Those department heads were in office when a lot of these conditions were allowed to exist," he said.

About the only other debate over the program was the proposed allocation of $375,000 for the repair of the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway for conversion into a "midtown neighborhood center."

Alderman Philip DeCicco wanted the money spent on new sewers, noting that there are 12 streets in his ward that have none at all.

Sinsabaugh noted that no one came forth to ask for sewers at last month's public hearings.

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward) disagreed with DeCicco's reasoning. "That's a part of Kingston," he said. "It's there. If we don't spend any money on it it is a sore that will go away? Will it fix itself?"

"If we let this go long enough we're going to have another old city hall on our hands."

The vote was 11-2 with Smith and Quick opposed.

Advisory Council Tours Broadway West

Members of the Community Development Advisory Council toured Broadway West on Tuesday afternoon for a first hand inspection of where the city plans to spend some $450,000 in federal funds over the next two years. This building on Abeel Street is fairly typical of the dilapidated wrecks in the area. (Freeman photo).

County Will Again Accept City Prisoners at Jail

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

City prisoners will once again be accepted in the city lockup at the Ulster County Jail, a practice that was abandoned close to a year ago. The procedure was abandoned at that time after a lack of search of city prisoners led to the discovery of 12 bottles of barbiturates in the county facility.

Attorneys for the county and the city are reportedly drawing up a contract now which will allow the county to house city prisoners before and between court appearances, a practice that, until last year, was an acceptable procedure satisfactory to both governments and their police agencies.

It was March 15 of last year that former Sheriff William B. Martin abolished the system, refusing to take city prisoners at the jail on Golden Hill, unless he received commitment papers from a judge.

Securing such commitment papers proved difficult at times especially if arrests were made during the night or after normal court hours.

As a consequence, city police have since had to take arrested persons out of the city during off-hours to town justice courts to secure the commitment papers.

This has cost the taxpayers money, cut into the policemen's time and often left the public without sufficient police protection while city law enforcement officers were out of the city with the prisoners.

Both Sheriff Thomas Mayone and City Police Chief Julius Glassman reportedly are anxious to return to the old system which they claim relieves congestion in that the city will be transporting its own prisoners to and from either city or county court, depending upon where they are arraigned.

County Judge Raymond J. Mino was critical earlier this week because the Sheriff's Department was tardy in producing prisoners in county court.

Mayone claimed he does not have enough cars or enough men to transport the prisoners as requested by the various courts.

With the city police back in the transportation of prisoners, the situation should be relieved, Mayone said.

Sheriff Committee Chairman Clifford W. Snyder (R-Dist. 1) pointed out that only three prisoners are permitted in a police car at one time for security reasons.

Therefore seven prisoners could tie up three police cars going to three different courts in one day.

Snyder also took Judge Mino to task for the leniency in passing sentences claiming that if the judge took a firm stand with law breakers there would be less cases of recidivism which contribute to court congestion.

Snyder said that the old contract actually remains in effect but that Martin refused to acknowledge it. The new one is being drawn by County Attorney Abram Molyneux and City Corporation Counsel Aaron Klein to update the agreement. It is expected to be in effect very soon, according to Mayone.

Deadly Disease Threatens Onassis

ATHENS (UPI) — Family sources said Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis was battling against a relapse of a potentially deadly muscular disease today, but a spokesman for Onassis Enterprises said it was only a virus infection with complications.

"Mr. Onassis went to the airport without a coat and caught a cold," the spokesman for Onassis Enterprises said. "His condition was aggravated by complications from a virus infection. He is now resting comfortably."

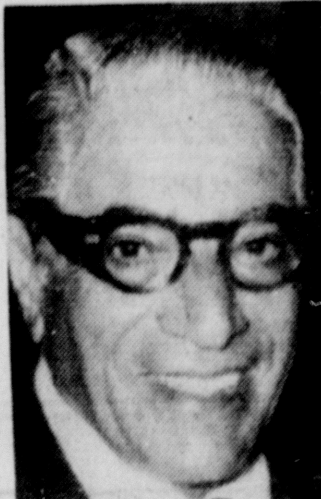

The spokesman said an American heart specialist, Dr. Isidor Rosenfeld, flew from New York with Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis to stay at the bedside of her 69-year-old husband.

"After all, he is a friend of Mr. Onassis and his personal physician," the spokesman said. Christina Onassis, 25, the multimillionaire's daughter, also was there.

Family sources said Onassis was suffering a relapse of myasthenia gravis, a disease that weakens the muscles.

They said the illness first struck Onassis in November but was checked with cortisone treatments. It flared up five days ago, they said, threatening vital muscles and endangering his life.

Christina, Onassis' only surviving child, has been at his bedside since the re-lapse, family sources said. Alexander, the son Onassis counted on to take over family business, died in a 1973 air crash at Athens airport.

Black's Medical Dictionary defines myasthenia gravis as "a serious disorder of rare occurrence in which the chief symptoms are muscular weakness and a special tendency for fatigue to come on rapidly when efforts are made."

A spokesman for the American Medical Association said the disease would be deadly if it caused fatigue of the heart or respiratory muscles.

When the myasthenia first struck, Onassis used an alias to enter a New York hospital for several weeks of treatment, the sources said.

President Will Run in 1976 Regardless of The Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will seek election to a full term in 1976, regardless of the state of the economy, his chief spokesman said today.

"The President's decision to seek election in 1976 is unrelated to the state of the economy," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, elaborating on Ford's own statement at a news conference in Atlanta Tuesday.

Furthermore, Nessen said he knew of no circumstances under which Ford would change his mind.

Nessen raised the subject with reporters without being asked. "Somehow it has gotten around that he would run if the economy is good and might not if it is bad," Nessen said of Ford. "That is not true."

The President said Tuesday he believed the economic picture would improve sufficiently by 1976 to "justify" his seeking a full four-year term in the White House.

In a televised NBC-TV interview two weeks ago, Ford indicated that a depressed economy might force him to pull out of the race. There also has been widespread speculation that a recurrence of his wife's breast cancer might compel Ford to quit politics.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., has passed the word that he may enter the New Hampshire presidential primary because of Ford's low standing in the public opinion polls.

Vote Down Effort to End Oil Depletion Allowance—Story Page 32

On the economy, Ford said the second and third quarters of this year would produce a

"switch on the plus side," with a 5 per cent increase in the gross national product and possibly a two million reduction in joblessness.

Earlier, the President passed the word through aides that he could get along with the House Ways and Means Committee's tentative $8.4 million tax rebate. But at his news conference he was more cautious. "I'll have to wait for the final version," he said.

He again ruled out wage-price controls as the "worst kind of medicine" for the country.

Relaxed and fielding questions with ease during the 40-minute news conference, Ford also said:

—He believes Congress will approve his $300 million supplemental appropriation request for South Vietnam. If Congress refuses "it will certainly complicate the military situation from the point of view of the South Vietnamese."

—He expects his next summit meeting with Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev will be held this summer in Washington and that the "relatively minor differences" in negotiating positions between the two sides on nuclear arms can be reconciled.

—He is studying a recommendation by southern governors to release some of the federal highway funds impounded by the administration.

—The State Department and National Security Council are studying the growing Arab investments in the United States.

—Former Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson gave Ford information when he was a congressman, which was the basis of a speech Ford made calling for the impeachment of Supreme Court Justice William Douglas.

Meanwhile, Ford conferred with about 100 members of Congress at breakfast today in a last ditch effort to rally support for his $3 a barrel oil import fee.

The House votes later today on a measure to delay the import increase, the first stage of which went into effect Sunday.

Nessen said Ford will veto the legislation so the additional support is important.

State Technicians Documenting Historic Items at Senate House

KINGSTON
A team of museum technicians from the State's Preservation and Collection Bureau are at the Senate House in Kingston photographing, identifying and documenting all items at the site to determine their place in the site's interpretive program. Anyone interested in dropping in to observe the team at work is invited to do so on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Meanwhile security measures that have been used are being tightened with extensive exterior lighting and intrusions systems employing the most modern electronic devices, according to James P. Gold, site manager.

The design for the new roof for the Senate House has been completed by architect George Hutton and work will begin soon weather permitting. Rumors that certain museum items already have been designated for transfer from the Senate House site are not true, according to James W. Wensyel, Palisades Region Historic Preservation Supervisor. "No item presently has been considered for transfer from the Senate House site," he said, adding however that "he will not and cannot guarantee" that no item will ever be moved to another site. He said that "certainly any item of genuine significance to a particular locale should remain with that locale. For example, Wensyel suggested that cannon from Stony Point Battlefield should be displayed at Stony Point and that artifacts most closely related to Gen. Washington's headquarters at Newburgh should remain at that site. He pointed out however that there is a need to review all displays currently at all sites under the Historic Sites Bureau "so that we may present interpretive programs that make maximum use of what we have, and of improved museum techniques, to better serve particular communities." He called it part of a master plan. Wensyel said that the basic rule is that for an artifact to remain on display at a site, it must be germane to that site's interpretive program. Citing the "critical need for restorative work" to be completed on a number of items in the museum, Wensyel referred specifically to paintings which have suffered to some degree from the lack of humidity controls and other museum facilities lacking at the Senate House Museum. It is hoped that the museum team technicians will soon begin emergency work on them. Wensyel said that some of that work will be done here and some elsewhere where refined equipment and techniques are available.

Registration Established

ELLENVILLE
The Ellenville Village Board has established its registration days for the March 18 village elections.

Registration will be held from 12 noon to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 27 and Saturday, March 1 at the Village Clerk's office. Only those persons who are not included on Ulster County's permanent registration list must register if they wish to vote in the village elections.

Persons who will reach age 18 before March 18th should also register, as well as residents who have recently moved to the village. A person must live in the village for at least 30 days in order to be eligible to vote.

Appointments By Olive Board

ASHOKAN
Appointments took up most of the time of Tuesday night's brief meeting of the Olive Town Board.

The town's summer recreation programs will be in familiar hands again. At its reorganizational meeting Jan. 16 the Olive Recreation Commission reelected Joseph Freidel chairman, Lawrence Stowe vice chairman and Mrs. Robert Henderson, secretary. Ron Pape was renamed as director of summer recreational programs.

The town board, acting on the recommendation of the Olive Environmental Council, named Hugh Kelly Sr., and Mrs. Anne Nissen, both of Olivebridge, to fill vacancies on the council, which is headed by Mrs. Ruth Hill.

The Board appointed Thomas Stamp of Shokan to the Olive Recreational Commission for a seven year term ending Dec. 31, 1981. Stamp was recommended by the commission after completing a one year term on the board Dec. 31.

Councilman Everett Cook, chairman of the Parks and Playgrounds Committee, announced that specifications are ready and that the town would advertise some time in February for bids on paving the tennis courts at the Shokan Recreation Park.

The Olive Bicentennial Committee, headed by Mrs. Vera Sickler, got three new members, Frank Carle, Kent Reeves, and former Supervisor James Glemming.

Several persons in the audience expressed concern over conditions at the Traver Hollow Bridge on Route 28A between Boiceville and West Shokan. Following a similar discussion at the January meeting, the board wrote to the New York City Water Authority, owners of the bridge, calling attention to hazardous conditions there and asking for improvements in paving, installation of warning signs, and other changes. The authority replied that it has taken the matter under advisement, the board learned.

mitted the list of unpaid taxes for 1974, totaling $64,176.59, and announced that the village tax sale will be held March 13 at 2 p.m. in her office.

• The village board announced that the 1975 tax roll is available for public inspection through Feb. 18 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the village clerk's office. Grievance Day will be held Feb. 18.

• The board appointed George Sheehey assistant police chief, effective Feb. 3.

• It was decided to hold the next village board meeting Feb. 24 instead of Feb. 17, because of the conflict with Washington's Birthday.

• The board also announced that village offices will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 12 (Lincoln's Birthday).

• A committee was appointed to investigate possible alternative sources of village insurance, with improved coverage and rates. Bids for a comprehensive insurance package will be advertised before June 1.

Man Is Convicted

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — An Albany County Court jury Tuesday night convicted Donald Knuckles, 22, of Albany, of murder, robbery and assault in a Kentucky Fried Chicken store holdup last fall.

The jury of seven men and three women deliberated eight hours and 40 minutes. Sentencing was set for Feb. 18 before Judge Arnold W. Proskin.

Knuckles was found guilty of the bludgeon murder of Gerald Gulliver, 19, night manager of the store in suburban Colonie, last Oct. 13. Knuckles, who formerly worked at the store, also was charged with taking $1,700 and with beating two 17-year-old employees, Kevin Bacon and Karen Betzler, during the incident.

Impeachment Action Study

Ford on Douglas: Data From AG Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said an assistant attorney general of the United States gave him the information on which he based his 1970 demand for the impeachment of Supreme Court Justice William Douglas.

In 1969, during the debate on President Richard Nixon's appointment of Clement Haynsworth as a Supreme Court justice, Ford said he was studying impeachment action against Douglas, who has been criticized by conservatives for many of his decisions. Nixon had criticized the High Court as too liberal.

After Haynsworth was rejected — partly because he issued judicial rulings on companies in which he had a financial interest — Ford, the House GOP leader, said the senators "have set new ethical standards. The investigation I instituted several months ago is continuing, will continue, and it would have continued whether or not Haynsworth was confirmed."

That investigation, Ford said Monday, included a briefing by Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson, then head of the criminal division. Reached by Westinghouse Broadcasting at his Austin, Tex., law office, Wilson said his boss, Attorney General John Mitchell, had told him to give the information to Ford.

At his news conference in Atlanta, Ford was asked if he got any FBI data in his investigation of the Douglas impeachment.

"I do not know what the source was of information given to me," he replied, "but I was given information by a high ranking official of the Department of Justice. I do not know what the source of that information was."

Ford said the information did not come from Mitchell or J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the FBI. In response to a later question, he said:

"The information that was given to me was to a substantial degree included in the speech that I made on the floor of the House ... The information was given to me by Mr. Will Wilson, who was then one of the assistant attorneys general."

In Austin, Wilson told Westinghouse that Mitchell telephoned him in 1970 with the instructions, "My memory is that it was a group of factual leads about Douglas' relationship with the Parvin-Dohrmann foundation primarily," he said. "That was most of the information. It wasn't evidentiary matter. It was mostly just factual leads."

Wilson was asked if the material came from secret FBI files. "I don't remember where it came from," he said. "I don't think that was the kind of material it was." He did say some of the information about the Parvin foundation did result from an FBI investigation.

Parvin-Dohrmann was a Los Angeles hotel supply firm which also owned an interest in three Las Vegas gambling casinos. Some of its stock was owned by the Albert F. Parvin Foundation, established in 1960 to set up international relations scholarships. Its president was Douglas, at a $12,000 per year salary. The foundation had problems with its tax dealings, including stock transactions between Parvin and the foundation.

Ethiopian Rule Reports Asmara Peace Restored

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The Ethiopian government today said "peace has been restored" in Asmara after five days of fighting with secessionist rebels, but fresh troops were airlifted to the city. Gunfire was reported on the northern outskirts.

Several truckloads of battleclad troops, all waving clenched fists, rolled through the streets of Addis Ababa on their way to the airport and planes for the provincial capital.

Military sources said the airlift and a convoy of 50 tanks supported by armored personnel carriers would bring the total of government troops in the area to 18,000.

The rebels, who are fighting for independence for the province of Eritrea, number about 15,000.

The tanks were held up for 24 hours after the rebels dynamited a bridge, but they were reported rolling towards Asmara again today after fording a mountain stream.

A total of 130 Americans, most of them women and children, were among the 253 foreigners brought to Addis Ababa in the first day of evacuation Tuesday.

Another 170 — missionaries, consular officials and government employees — stayed behind.

The government newspaper, the Ethiopian Herald, said in an editorial all avenues toward peace with the rebels are being explored but "there is surely a limit to one's patience."

"Peace has now been restored in the city," it said, without elaborating on casualties.

Some of the Americans evacuees reported indiscriminate slaughter and looting. Witnesses have estimated the death toll at around 200.

Witnesses said guerrillas dressed in civilian clothes slipped into the city and some soldiers were shooting at anything that moved.

The two sides were also fighting in the scrublands around the city.

Residents said two trucks full of dead soldiers arrived in Asmara after Tuesday's fighting.

Foreign refugees — most of them women and children — who arrived in Addis Ababa on three chartered planes said Asmara had been turned into a virtual ghost town.

There was no water or electricity and food supplies were running short, they said.

"People have been shot down indiscriminately all over the place," said John Hoover of Honolulu.

"As we left there was no water, no electricity, only a little food. If you've been in Vietnam then you know what I'm talking about," he said.

Most of the evacuees declined to talk with reporters, their embassies having told them it could jeopardize the lives of some 170 Americans and other British, Italian and French nationals still in Asmara.

About half the Americans in the city were U.S. government employees working at the Kagnew communications base, and their dependents.

The others were employees of private companies such as Mobil Oil and telecommunications firms, and their dependents.

French officials said they would evacuate the rest of their citizens today to Djibouti in the neighboring French-administered territory of Afars and Issas. Italy was also reported getting an airlift under way.

However, officials in Addis Ababa said few of the 3,000 Italians in the area were likely to leave. Most have lived in the former Italian colony all their lives.

See Resumption of Turk Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials say they expect a resumption of U.S. military aid to Turkey sometime before the suspension could cause significant damage to NATO's southern flank.

The State Department interpreted the act of Congress which requires the aid cutoff as taking effect at midnight tonight. Some congressmen had thought Congress meant midnight last night, but there was no formal challenge to the State Department's interpretation, extending aid another day.

Congress ordered that the aid, including credit sales, be suspended Feb. 5 — today — but did not specify the hour.

Congress ordered the aid remain suspended until "substantial progress" toward a Cyprus peace settlement has been made and until President Ford can certify that Turkey would use the aid only for defensive purposes.

Secretary of State Henry

But the consensus here in official circles is that both the United States and Turkey have a vital stake in continued cooperation and that this will be maintained after the present difficulty is sorted out.

Officials were particularly skeptical of suggestions that Turkey might pull out of NATO.

Rumors that certain museum items already have been designated for transfer from the Senate House site are not true, according to James W. Wensyel, Palisades Region Historic Preservation Supervisor.

"No item presently has been considered for transfer from the Senate House site," he said, adding however that "he will not and cannot guarantee" that no item will ever be moved to another site. He said that "certainly any item of genuine significance to a particular locale should remain with that locale. For example, Wensyel suggested that cannon from Stony Point Battlefield should be displayed at Stony Point and that artifacts most closely related to Gen. Washington's headquarters at Newburgh should remain at that site.

He pointed out however that there is a need to review all displays currently at all sites under the Historic Sites Bureau "so that we may present interpretive programs that make maximum use of what we have, and of improved museum techniques, to better serve particular communities." He called it part of a master plan.

Wensyel said that the basic rule is that for an artifact to remain on display at a site, it must be germane to that site's interpretive program.

Citing the "critical need for restorative work" to be completed on a number of items in the museum, Wensyel referred specifically to paintings which have suffered to some degree from the lack of humidity controls and other museum facilities lacking at the Senate House Museum.

It is hoped that the museum team technicians will soon begin emergency work on them.

Wensyel said that some of that work will be done here and some elsewhere where refined equipment and techniques are available.

Registration Established

ELLENVILLE
The Ellenville Village Board has established its registration days for the March 18 village elections.

Registration will be held from 12 noon to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 27 and Saturday, March 1 at the Village Clerk's office. Only those persons who are not included on Ulster County's permanent registration list must register if they wish to vote in the village elections.

Persons who will reach age 18 before March 18th should also register, as well as residents who have recently moved to the village. A person must live in the village for at least 30 days in order to be eligible to vote.

Appointments By Olive Board

ASHOKAN
Appointments took up most of the time of Tuesday night's brief meeting of the Olive Town Board.

The town's summer recreation programs will be in familiar hands again. At its reorganizational meeting Jan. 16 the Olive Recreation Commission reelected Joseph Freidel chairman, Lawrence Stowe vice chairman and Mrs. Robert Henderson, secretary. Ron Pape was renamed as director of summer recreational programs.

The town board, acting on the recommendation of the Olive Environmental Council, named Hugh Kelly Sr., and Mrs. Anne Nissen, both of Olivebridge, to fill vacancies on the council, which is headed by Mrs. Ruth Hill.

The Board appointed Thomas Stamp of Shokan to the Olive Recreational Commission for a seven year term ending Dec. 31, 1981. Stamp was recommended by the commission after completing a one year term on the board Dec. 31.

Councilman Everett Cook, chairman of the Parks and Playgrounds Committee, announced that specifications are ready and that the town would advertise some time in February for bids on paving the tennis courts at the Shokan Recreation Park.

The Olive Bicentennial Committee, headed by Mrs. Vera Sickler, got three new members, Frank Carle, Kent Reeves, and former Supervisor James Glemming.

Several persons in the audience expressed concern over conditions at the Traver Hollow Bridge on Route 28A between Boiceville and West Shokan. Following a similar discussion at the January meeting, the board wrote to the New York City Water Authority, owners of the bridge, calling attention to hazardous conditions there and asking for improvements in paving, installation of warning signs, and other changes. The authority replied that it has taken the matter under advisement, the board learned.

In a related matter, Town Clerk Lillian Finklestein was asked to solicit community opinion on a suggestion that the terms for village trustees be increased from two to three years and that the village change its fiscal year. It was noted that, by the time new trustees take office, the budget that they must work with during the coming year has often already been established. A change in the fiscal year would give them more control over their own budget.

Mrs. Finklestein will report back to the board at a later date. It was noted that either change must first be approved by referendum.

In other action:
• Mrs. Finklestein submitted the list of unpaid taxes for 1974, totaling $64,176.59, and announced that the village tax sale will be held March 13 at 2 p.m. in her office.

• The village board announced that the 1975 tax roll is available for public inspection through Feb. 18 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the village clerk's office. Grievance Day will be held Feb. 18.

• The board appointed George Sheeley assistant police chief, effective Feb. 3.

• It was decided to hold the next village board meeting Feb. 24 instead of Feb. 17, because of the conflict with Washington's Birthday.

• The board also announced that village offices will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 12 (Lincoln's Birthday).

• A committee was appointed to investigate possible alternative sources of village insurance, with improved coverage and rates. Bids for a comprehensive insurance package will be advertised before June 1.

Man Is Convicted

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — An Albany County Court jury Tuesday night convicted Donald Knuckles, 22, of Albany, of murder, robbery and assault in a Kentucky Fried Chicken store holdup last fall.

The jury of seven men and three women deliberated eight hours and 40 minutes. Sentencing was set for Feb. 18 before Judge Arnold W. Proskin.

Knuckles was found guilty of the bludgeon murder of Jerald Gulliver, 19, night manager of the store in suburban Colonie, last Oct. 13. Knuckles, who formerly worked at the store, also was charged with taking $1,700 and with beating two 17-year-old employees, Kevin Bacon and Karen Betzler, during the incident.

Impeachment Action Study*Ford on Douglas: Data From AG Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said an assistant attorney general of the United States gave him the information on which he based his 1970 demand for the impeachment of Supreme Court Justice William Douglas.

In 1969, during the debate on President Richard Nixon's appointment of Clement Haynsworth as a Supreme Court justice, Ford said he was studying impeachment action against Douglas, who has been criticized by conservatives for many of his decisions. Nixon had criticized the High Court as too liberal.

After Haynsworth was rejected — partly because he issued judicial rulings on companies in which he had a financial interest — Ford, the House GOP leader, said the senators "have set new ethical standards. The investigation I instituted several months ago is continuing, will continue, and it would have continued whether or not Haynsworth was confirmed."

That investigation, Ford said Monday, included a briefing by Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson, then head of the criminal division. Reached by Westinghouse Broadcasting at his Austin, Tex., law office, Wilson said his boss, Attorney General John Mitchell, had told him to give the information to Ford.

At his news conference in Atlanta, Ford was asked if he got any FBI data in his investigation of the Douglas impeachment.

"I do not know what the source was of information given to me," he replied, "but I was given information by a high ranking official of the Department of Justice. I do not know what the source of that information was."

Ford said the information did not come from Mitchell or J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the FBI. In response to a later question, he said:

"The information that was given to me was to a substantial degree included in the speech that I made on the floor of the House ... The information was given to me by Mr. Will Wilson, who was then one of the assistant attorneys general."

In Austin, Wilson told Westinghouse that Mitchell telephoned him in 1970 with the instructions, "My memory is that it was a group of factual leads about Douglas' relationship with the Parvin-Dohrmann foundation primarily," he said. "That was most of the information. It wasn't evidentiary matter. It was mostly just factual leads."

Wilson was asked if the material came from secret FBI files. "I don't remember where it came from," he said. "I don't think that was the kind of material it was." He did say some of the information about the Parvin foundation did result from an FBI investigation.

Parvin-Dohrmann was a Los Angeles hotel supply firm which also owned an interest in three Las Vegas gambling casinos. Some of its stock was owned by the Albert F. Parvin Foundation, established in 1960 to set up international relations scholarships. Its president was Douglas, at a $12,000 per year salary. The foundation had problems with its tax dealings, including stock transactions between Parvin and the foundation.

Ethiopian Rule Reports Asmara Peace Restored

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The Ethiopian government today said "peace has been restored" in Asmara after five days of fighting with secessionist rebels, but fresh troops were airlifted to the city. Gunfire was reported on the northern outskirts.

Several truckloads of battle-laden troops, all waving clenched fists, rolled through the streets of Addis Ababa on their way to the airport and planes for the provincial capital.

Military sources said the airlift and a convoy of 50 tanks supported by armored personnel carriers would bring the total of government troops in the area to 18,000.

The rebels, who are fighting for independence for the province of Eritrea, number about 15,000.

The tanks were held up for 24 hours after the rebels dynamited a bridge, but they were reported rolling towards Asmara again today after fording a mountain stream.

A total of 130 Americans, most of them women and children, were among the 253 foreigners brought to Addis Ababa in the first day of evacuation Tuesday.

Another 170 — missionaries, consular officials and government employees — stayed behind.

The government newspaper, the Ethiopian Herald, said in an editorial all avenues toward peace with the rebels are being explored but "there is surely a limit to one's patience."

"Peace has now been restored in the city," it said, without elaborating on casualties.

Some of the Americans evacuees reported indiscriminate slaughter and looting. Witnesses have estimated the death toll at around 200.

Witnesses said guerrillas dressed in civilian clothes slipped into the city and some soldiers were shooting at anything that moved. The two sides were also fighting in the scrublands around the city.

Residents said two trucks full of dead soldiers arrived in Asmara after Tuesday's fighting.

Foreign refugees — most of them women and children — who arrived in Addis Ababa on three chartered planes said Asmara had been turned into a virtual ghost town.

There was no water or electricity and food supplies were running short, they said.

"People have been shot down indiscriminately all over the place," said John Hoover of Honolulu.

"As we left there was no water, no electricity, only a little food. If you've been in Vietnam then you know what I'm talking about," he said.

Most of the evacuees declined to talk with reporters, their embassies having told them it could jeopardize the lives of some 170 Americans and other British, Italian and French nationals still in Asmara.

About half the Americans in the city were U.S. government employees working at the Kagnew communications base, and their dependents.

The others were employees of private companies such as Mobil Oil and telecommunications firms, and their dependents.

French officials said they would evacuate the rest of their citizens today to Djibouti in the neighboring French-administered territory of Afars and Issas. Italy was also reported getting an airlift under way.

However, officials in Addis Ababa said few of the 3,000 Italians in the area were likely to try to leave. Most have lived in the former Italian colony all their lives.

See Resumption of Turk Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials say they expect a resumption of U.S. military aid to Turkey sometime before the suspension could cause significant damage to NATO's southern flank.

The State Department interpreted the act of Congress which requires the aid cutoff as taking effect at midnight tonight. Some congressmen had thought Congress meant midnight last night, but there was no formal challenge to the State Department's interpretation, extending aid another day.

Congress ordered that the aid, including credit sales, be suspended Feb. 5 — today — but did not specify the hour.

Congress ordered the aid remain suspended until "substantial progress" toward a Cyprus peace settlement has been made and until President Ford can certify that Turkey would use the aid only for defensive purposes. Secretary of State Henry

Kissinger has said the cutoff would be a "tragedy" and "a serious setback for our security interests."

But the consensus here in official circles is that both the United States and Turkey have a vital stake in continued cooperation and that this will be maintained after the present difficulty is sorted out.

Officials were particularly skeptical of suggestions that Turkey might pull out of NATO.

'Tires, Tires Everywhere'...

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE
When the Village of Ellen-ville closed its landfill Jan. 1, it ended a lot of headaches and extra expense, but there is one problem left over.

The problem is an enormous pile of tires. Tires are usually hard to dispose of.

You can't burn tires, because that's against every air quality standard on the books.

Robert Frost poetically observed that "There's something that doesn't love a wall." There is also something that doesn't love a buried tire. When you bury a tire, it slowly, but inexorably, flexes its way back to the surface.

If it were just a few tires, it wouldn't be much of a problem for Ellenville, but it is much more than just a few. They have been collecting at the landfill for at least 15 years; it's been so long that no one around the village hall could recall exactly when it started.

Village Manager Modris Pukulis, when asked for an estimate, could only say that the tires numbered in the "thousands."

The tires are piled in a long ridge, in shape and size something like the Shawangunks, along the access road to the former landfill.

This mountain of tires — which has a brooding sort of malevolent grandeur, a majesty of uselessness — slopes gradually to a height of about eight feet at its highest point. It extends for 101 mincing paces (the walk was icy) up the hill to the old landfill.

This mountain of vulcanized doughnuts has a polyglot population. There are white walls and black walls, truck tires, wide oval tires, little skinny tires, studded tires, all kinds of tires.

The village tried to chip away at the slopes of Mount Goodyear (or is it Goodrich) last year. Building Inspector Howard Weiss came up with the idea of putting some of the tires on the guard posts along Westwood Avenue, cutting down the sizes of the spaces between the posts for motorists to go through and minimizing the damage should the wayward run into one of them.

"I liked the idea," remembered Pukulis, "but then we had a couple of complaints from people who thought they were ugly."

End of an idea. Pukulis has two more ideas. One of them is to put some of the tires, with some added fill, along an unstable embankment of Route 52 East. He said that should stabilize the bank, get rid of a bunch of tires, and would be done "if we can find out who owns the property."

The old landfill site is to become a recreational area, and Pukulis said some of the tires could be used as bumpers at a minibike track there.

He said he had heard of a tire shredding process out on the West Coast, but it was expensive and also unavailable here. Coastal cities use tires to make artificial reefs, but the Sandburg Creek is too small for that.

"As a last resort," said Pukulis, "we'll truck them to the landfill, and let them worry about them."

"If anybody wants them, we'll give them a good deal," said Pukulis hopefully.

Dairylea Suit Settled . . . Both Sides Satisfied

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Spokesmen for both sides expressed satisfaction after the Dairylea Cooperative and its members Tuesday night tentatively settled a dispute over a proposed assessment of members.

Dairylea, the largest dairy cooperative in the Northeast, had sought to assess its members $18.6 million, but agreed out-of-court to a preliminary settlement of an assessment of $13.5 million.

Ninety members of the co-op had taken their case against the original assessment to State Supreme Court here last week, but the trial was postponed Monday and Tuesday to allow attorneys for both sides to negotiate the settlement.

"It was a case of determining what Dairylea needed to remain a strong and viable institution," said William Shapiro, a Buffalo attorney representing the co-op members. "We are extremely satisfied with the settlement. We were interested in getting an arrangement that would ease the members' financial burdens."

M. Earl Evans, a Dairylea attorney, said the proposal would not jeopardize the cooperative's future. "Under this proposal, Dairylea remains very strong and its future is completely assured."

State Supreme Court Justice Emmett Schnepf, who presided over the abbreviated trial, set a hearing Feb. 25 for members to voice their opinions about the proposal. Schnepf must decide whether to accept the settlement after the hearing.

Under terms of the proposed agreement, Dairylea farm-members can meet their assessment obligations through 30 monthly, interest-free payments, ending in May, 1977.

Members are also allowed to save 8.5 per cent of their individual assessments by paying their total levy within 30 days of any final agreement date.

The proposal also retains a 20-cent per hundredweight deduction from members' monthly milk checks, but allows six cents of the total to be used as a reserve fund.

Bruce Snow, Dairylea's public relations director, said the six-cent total, amounting to $1.8 million yearly, would be used to pay off debts accumulated by the cooperative.

"If the cooperative has a good year, any remaining money in the fund will be repaid to members through certificates of equity," he said.

William Shapiro, attorney for members challenging the $18.6 million levy, said the six-cent deduction could be dropped in coming years "if the cooperative's financial situation allows it."

Dairylea's board of directors levied the original assessment last November in an effort to pay off debts piled up in recent years.

Dissenting members claimed the co-op's bylaws only provide for assessments to cover current operating expenses. They objected to Dairylea's arguments that the loans fell under that category.

However, Shapiro said the proposed settlement accepted the validity of the levy. "We agree it's valid and in the best interest of Dairylea and all its members."

One attorney in the litigation refused to sign the proposed settlement. Harry Polikoff, of New York City, said he represented 125 new Dairylea members in a class action suit.

Polikoff said the Dairylea debts to be covered by the special assessment were accumulated before his class action clients joined the cooperative.

"I object to the proposed settlement in that it gives no special consideration to new members who signed up after April 1, 1974, after the deficit was accrued," he said.

Schnepf extended last month's court order blocking the levy until the matter is decided.

Carey Defends His Budget and Tax Proposals

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — With the budget battle just under way, Gov. Hugh L. Carey told neared a showdown with the legislature over his proposals to rescue the financially ailing Urban Development Corp.

Carey has already asked for $178 million for the UDC to help it get through the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends March 31, and slated a noon press conference to outline further details.

Tuesday, the Democratic governor went public in defense of his proposed $10.692 billion budget for the coming fiscal year, mixing hard sell with humor in a speech to the New York State Legislative Forum, a coalition of public interest groups.

Introduced to a standing ovation, Carey quipped, "All those in favor of the 10-cent gas tax please remain standing," then joined in the general laughter as the audience returned en masse to their seats in Chancellor's Hall.

Turning serious, Carey spelled out his version of the growing controversy over his budget requests, repeating his plaint that he had inherited a critical fiscal situation from the previous Republican administration.

He called his tax and spending plan, which calls for $806 million in new taxes, a "zero-base budget," and said he would try to economize wherever possible by firing non-essential commissioners and continuing a hiring freeze.

Carey rapidly recounted the other tax proposals, including boosts in business taxes, revisions in sales taxes and automobile registration and drivers' license fees which would raise a total of $396 million.

Turning to his gasoline tax proposal, which would increase the tax to 18 cents per gallon and bring in an additional $410 million, Carey said he did not "bite a bullet when I made this tax proposal—I swallowed a political hand grenade."

"My conscience and my duty to the people of New York State left me no other alternative," he said.

Carey said that although the tax proposal was distasteful to many people it might prove to be a good thing because it "might serve as a lightning rod to alert us all to the danger of unchecked government spending."

The governor also moved to stamp out recurring speculation that instead of the added gasoline tax a one-cent increase in the sales tax might be substituted. Increasing the statewide sales tax level to five cents on a dollar would raise about $440 million.

"I will fight every movement to raise our staggering and regressive sales tax," he said.

He once again pointed to a revenue sharing feature in the gasoline tax increase, noting that $150 million of the additional funds would be returned to local communities to use as they saw fit.

About 800 persons were on hand for the speech and Carey participated in a lengthy question-and-answer session following his formal talk. Most of the questions were on special interest points in the budget.

One woman drew appreciative laughter when she told Carey, "You will be our next president. The governor laughed and said the statement had not been solicited and then facetiously asked, "Are there any more questions like that one?"

The Krupsak Furor Continues

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The furor over a proposed increase in funds for the lieutenant governor's offices is continuing and even Gov. Hugh L. Carey appears to be sidestepping a complete public answer.

During an appearance Tuesday before the New York State Legislative Forum, Carey was asked to justify his request for an increase for Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupsak's office.

The governor said Ms. Krupsak would be a full-time worker and would be given additional responsibilities—and then added that his proposed executive chamber budget was less than that in the current fiscal year.

What the governor did not tell the forum, however, was that the requested funds for the lieutenant governor's office have nothing to do with the executive chamber budget.

His request for $250,000 for Miss Krupsak's operation—above and beyond the $363,000 in the Senate budget for the lieutenant governor's office—is included in the budget's "miscellaneous" section, many pages removed from the executive chamber requests, which are $100,000 less for the coming year.

Thus, if the requests for the lieutenant governor had been placed in the executive chamber budget, which Carey's answer implied, the executive chamber budget would be $150,000 more than the current year.

Carey later said he put the request for Ms. Krupsak's operation in the "miscellaneous" section to prevent any accusations he was trying to hide the fund.

He also said considering the effects of inflation his executive chamber budget still would be less in terms of real dollars than the previous budget even if the funds for Ms. Krupsak were included.

Consumer Control

The American consumer is once again realizing his long-forgotten power. During the good times that persisted throughout most of the period from World War II to the late 1960s, an economy of abundance allowed the great majority to buy in ever-increasing amounts. Now the recession has changed all that, and consumer resistance is beginning to put the brakes on the inflation caused by such a long spending spree.

Item: Only a short time ago the then president of General Motors was publicly urging Americans to buy a new car — at higher prices than before — on the grounds that this would be "good for America." Buyers in droves demurred. As a mountainous backlog of unsold cars built up, something had to give. What gave was the price. The auto makers are giving so-called rebates of several hundred dollars per car to entice buyers.

Item: The soaring price of sugar last year was almost unprecedented. Once again, consumer resistance moved into action. In consequence, warehouses are swamped and ships on both coasts unable to unload their cargoes of sugar because there is no place to store it. Sales to industrial users are down.

Numerous other examples could be cited. What they all tend to point up is that the consumer is not a robot programmed to buy anything as advertised. Consumers do have ultimate control in the market place. For their own best interest, they must exercise that control.

Tennis for Us

The basic truism that youth is not to be denied was again confirmed Sunday when Jimmy Connors, the brash and abrasive wunderkind of American tennis, devastated Australia's Rod Laver in a $100,000 winner-take-all tennis match at Las Vegas. The 26-year-old Connors was able to thwart all of his 36-year-old opponent's wily tricks and literally blew his respected elder off the court. In doing so, Connors may have opened a whole new window on the sporting scene.

Promoters are already talking about one-on-one champion tennis matches similar to heavyweight boxing bouts, as a new avenue of sport interest and revenue. Might be a good idea to perk up a somewhat jaded sports world that relies heavily on cumbersome and expensive team sports such as basketball and football. A tennis racket is relatively cheap and any kid can play.

Already indoor tennis clubs, operating all year, are popping up in the metropolitan areas, providing enjoyment not only for the young, but also for a careful middle-ager. The boom hasn't reached Ulster County yet, but the day cannot be far off. Meanwhile interested area youngsters can avail themselves of the facilities at Forsyth Park and the courts of the Community College at Stone Ridge. Area planners would do well to keep the tennis boom in mind when they are planning future facilities.

Berry's World

"Let's go on a last fling vacation to Florida, like everybody else — just in case!"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten
WASHINGTON—For years, the Central Intelligence Agency operated love traps in New York City and San Francisco, where foreign diplomats were lured by prostitutes in the pay of the CIA.

Through hidden one-way mirrors, CIA agents filmed the sexual adventures and later tried to blackmail the victims into becoming informants.

The stranger-than-fiction story of the blackmail operation is one of the secrets which the CIA is frantically trying to hide from congressional investigators. But we have uncovered the details and will be happy to furnish Congress with the evidence.

Significantly, the CIA used the old Bureau of Narcotics as a cover for the bizarre sex set-up. In both cities, narcotics agents rented and maintained adjoining efficiency apartments. It was their responsibility to make sure the blackmail apartment had a lived-in look and was kept stocked with food and liquor, so the victims wouldn't become suspicious.

On the East Coast the dual efficiency apartments were located on the sixth floor of a high-rise apartment building in Greenwich Village. On the wall of the blackmail apartment was hung a large painting of two ships. But the painting was actually a Mission Impossible-style one-way mirror.

On the other side of the wall, CIA agents could watch the action through the see-through painting and film the most intimate moments. The painting was strategically placed so that it gave the CIA observers a full view of the sofa, which opened into a bed. A Japanese screen implanted with microphones, provided the sound for the CIA's blackmail movies.

On the CIA side of the wall, the one-way mirror was hidden behind a painting with hinges. The agents could merely swing back the painting like a cabinet door for the peep shows in the adjoining apartment.

To stage the shows, both male and female prostitutes with a variety of sexual skills were used. The CIA possibly got the idea from the Russians, who have long used sex blackmail to entrap Westerners into spying for them.

Footnote: The narcs used the apartments when the CIA didn't need them. They would be advised to stay away on certain nights. The monthly rent for the dual Greenwich Village apartments was $160 each. The rent, food and liquor bills were paid out of a special checking account in a bank near the New York narcotics office. Our associate Bob Owens contacted a CIA spokesman who said the agency had "never heard of this."

WATCH ON WASTE: Deep in the rugged Canadian backcountry of Labrador, the U.S. Strategic Air Command has maintained three rustic fishing lodges for vacationing military brass.

Through last August, the favored officers were served by guides who helped them choose lures and clean their fish, while cooks and other lackeys catered to their slightest whims. The tab, of course, was picked up by the taxpayers.

Originally established as survival training camps, the lodges were used for several years as vacation spas. Among the guests has been Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. George Brown.

Last year, $35,000 in salaries was spent to coddle the visiting bigwigs. Another $4,200 was paid out by the Strategic Air Command in maintenance costs. An Air Force spokesman pointed out, however, that the lodge guests paid for their own food.

The visiting VIPs, however, did not pay for their air transportation to the remote but spacious fishing lodges. They were shuttled from the SAC base at Goose Bay, Canada, on ancient planes called "Otters" and "Albatrosses." Incredibly, the SAC budget listed these planes as "strategic offensive aircraft."

These pontoon planes were also used to shuttle visitors and SAC personnel stationed at Goose Bay to Sand Hill, another Canadian lodge which is privately owned by a retired general.

The public is now rid of this tax burden. The Pentagon says it will not reopen the lodges next summer, but instead will turn them over to the Canadian government.

Footnote: While the Pentagon has economized on these Canadian lodges at No Name River and Minipi Lake, the brass still has taxpayersupported fishing lodges in Alaska. Congress has now asked the General Accounting Office to look into all such military vacation spots.

TRIPLE-DIPPER: Able John Molinari, who collects nearly $20,000 a year from the taxpayers as head of the state office of Sen. Harrison Williams, D.-N.J., switches hats to pick up two other paychecks.

At Western Electric, he is paid a part-time rate based on hours worked, and gets a paid, five-week vacation plus pay for holidays. At the International Brotherhood of Electrical Engineers, he collects about 400 a month as the financial secretary.

Molinari, who has worked in the Senate for 14 years, says he sees "no conflict" among his three highly diverse jobs. "I call the shots as I see them."

Inside Report

Communist Takeover of Portugal Possible

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A secret report flashed to the State Department of an imminent Communist coup d'etat in Portugal turned out to be premature, but top Ford administration officials remain convinced that a classic far-left takeover in Lisbon is possible any moment.

That has forced a painful reassessment at highest levels here of American military power in the Atlantic Ocean. The reassessors must ponder this hard reality: the drastic political upheaval in Europe's westernmost country threatens the U.S. with a major political setback — and a consequent Soviet gain in world politics.

One quick fallout is military. If Portugal leaves the North Atlantic alliance (NATO), a catastrophe now given 50-50 odds, the most important anti-submarine warfare base in the entire Atlantic will immediately be compromised. That base, located in Portugal's strategic Azores Islands, employs top-secret sensor devices and wide-ranging spotter aircraft to monitor movement of all Soviet shipping, particularly submarines, in the vast Atlantic approaches to Gibraltar.

The savage course of political events in Portugal following four decades of right-wing rule by the Salazar dictatorship points precisely toward such new erosion in the troubled Western Alliance.

Recently, secret word flashed through diplomatic channels to the State Department that a brutal Communist-style coup d'etat was imminent. This was only hours after the ruling 20-man Armed Forces Council decreed a single, centralized labor union in Portugal, insuring Communist control of the entire labor movement.

No coup developed. But events since then have strengthened fears that the far left, dominated by Communists, is determined to strangle center and center-right political parties, delay indefinitely the promised elections for a constituent assembly and strike for total power within the next several months.

That adds up to a classic political coup. When the Social Democratic Center party met last week in a formal convention, it was mobbed, surrounded and besieged by street gangs of left-wing toughs despite a pledge by the Armed Forces Council of freedom to prepare for the long promised constituent assembly elections.

When the Socialists petitioned for the right to hold a mass demonstration, the Communists scheduled their own mass demonstration the same day. What followed was a transparent Communist-inspired solution: both demonstrations were disallowed.

Even more revealing was last week's unpublished comment by Gen. Otelo Carvalho, acting commander of the continental operations command. As cabled to the State Department, Carvalho raised the gravest question yet about the elections: "The results of the spring elections will not necessarily represent the will and the best interests of a majority of the Portuguese people."

Originally promised by March 31, the earliest date for the elections now appears to be late April. But Gen. Carvalho's words undermined the basic concept of holding elections at all — and laid the groundwork for dismissing the results if they are held, indicating the far left knows it could not possibly win a fair electoral test.

In the background of the Portuguese drama are major failures of U.S. policy during the 40 years when Portugal slept under the Salazar dictatorship. Contacts by American diplomats with the underground political opposition were virtually nil. Thus, when the dictatorship was suddenly overthrown the U.S. found itself in the dark. Almost nothing is known even now about the inner workings of the armed forces movement or its ruling council.

Moreover, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency has been rendered useless as a secret investigating or operating arm in Portugal. While Soviet funds are assumed to be lubricating the Portuguese far left, the U.S. finds itself prevented from competing in a struggle of external intervention. As a top State Department official told us: "This is the classic spot for a little clandestine help, but we wouldn't even attempt it in the political atmosphere at home."

Besides losing U.S. and NATO base rights in the Azores, a Communist-style takeover moving Portugal into the third world or eventually the Communist camp could well infect Spain across the border. Beyond that, it poses this still more menacing question:

Would Western Europe perceive a neutralist, pro-Communist Portugal as another example of America's decline? If so, the loss of the base rights in the Azores would rate low among the lethal byproducts of the tragic drama being played in Lisbon today.

My Daughter is Getting Married

Overnight, the house has grown. It is big and silent. Somewhere, Kelly is hemming a dress. I can hear Charlie Chan cleaning his paws, the tongue making strong curling strokes over the black calloused pads.

He frets. A whiny noise whistles through his nose. Today the deep timber of his bark echoed through the house although no one was outside. He misses the girls. And so do we.

Karen and Kathi are at Florida Atlantic University. In June, hopefully, Karen will get her degree to teach retarded children. She calls them "exceptional." Semantics is always good for an academic argument.

The senior, by a quirk, has a room across the dormitory hall from Kathi. The little one isn't little anymore. She's a junior majoring in family psychology. Someday, she may untie the skeins and webs which keep families apart.

There is a time, my mother said, when the birds must remain in the nest and there is a time when they must fly off — to return, sporadically, as respectful visitors.

Once we were seven — counting my father — now we are two. Ginny and Charlie have their eight children and we see them twice a year. It isn't enough. Gayle has a house in Florida with a swimming pool; her marriage was annulled; her little girl is being brought up by his mother. She assists at autopsies.

I like a noisy house. It gives me something to complain about. The letters from college are like the touch of warm fingers. In the time it takes to read the letter, the fingers are withdrawn.

You want to know if they are eating properly, taking their vitamins, and getting enough rest between study and dates. These things are seldom recorded in the letters. What we read are the number of hours and credits, and which girls are nice roommates and which ones will not make a bed or wash underthings.

Recently, the tone of Karen's letters changed. They became bright, euphoric. Everything was beautiful; everybody was sweet. Then another letter arrived: "I'm in love! His name is Paul Says."

Mother phoned daughter. There was a lot of mysterious female talk. I dig it not. Then Karen asked if she could bring him home for a weekend. I put on my gracious telephone smile. "Sure."

I sized him up. Not that the ultimate verdict would be altered, but I have fathered these girls for a long time and I took Paul into the library for a man-to-man chat.

He is about my size, an ambitious fellow who is about to get his master's degree in teaching "exceptional" children. He comes from Interlaken, New Jersey. He's 28 to her 21, which is all right. He has a small apartment full of fish tanks in Boca Raton.

I am naturally suspicious of any man who wants to marry my daughter. I told him he would have to have patience, because Karen's revolving mind is on lofty subjects while the soup is burning on the stove.

Karen set the date for March 15th. She wants a small family reception and a small 3 p.m. church wedding. She drew a plan of Paul's apartment and I noted at once that there are no chairs. "It doesn't matter, Daddy," she said. "We'll get chairs, and a TV set."

"Yep," I said, "and 17 toasters as wedding gifts." I find that the weddings of three daughters is like standing on the tracks watching a train. It seems far away but daddy is lucky if he escapes with his life.

I like Paul. Karen loves him. Kathi admires him. Kelly is busy working up a teeming sweat. Nothing is going to turn out right; there is so much to do; she pretends to understand the situation but gets out of bed every morning moaning, "March 15th is getting closer and I haven't got anything done." What's to do? I put on a monkey suit and walk down the aisle with my number-three girl and hand her over, like a Stradivarius, to something that looks like an orangutan. Fathers of daughters have this feeling. Then I say a prayer and hope that they have a long life of happiness. Karen, the beautiful queen bee, deserves no less.

Bear in mind, kids: We are born loving our parents; we grow up understanding them; we grow old forgiving them...

The Reader Writes

Minnewaska Plans

Editor, The Freeman:

I read with pleasure the recent Freeman editorial entitled, "Plans for Minnewaska." The growing interest of your newspaper in a question which ultimately affects not only those of us living here in Rochester, but all Ulster County was most gratifying.

I must, however, take exception to some of your statements and point out a fact or two which you overlooked.

For your readers who aren't familiar, as yet, with the problem, Minnewaska Mountain Houses Inc. seeks rezoning in Rochester Town to allow apartments on Minnewaska resort property along Highway 44/55 in the Shawangunk Mountains approximately above Kerhonkson.

Your editorial stated, "... a project such as this has caused apprehension among conservationists and sportsmen who fear the priceless beauty of Minnewaska may be impaired and the delicate balance of nature disturbed." I can in good conscience call myself neither a sportsman nor a conservationist. I am, nevertheless, very, very concerned about this proposed development. Like most of your readers, I imagine, I am an economic animal much perplexed by the problems of keeping head above inflationary waters at this difficult point in time. I see the Minnewaska development as providing the hard-put upon taxpayers of this area with more burden, not less. The project might mean some jobs for a few of us. And that could be important. But how about the expenses it will generate for all of us?

Let me point out just a few of the costly questions involved in the proposed development.

First, the projected 1,136 new housing units may provide our town of Rochester (present population approximately 3,940) with 2,500 more souls. The rezoning petition states that "the Townhouse Development areas will provide the appearance of a small village or hamlet." This new "village or hamlet" which we may get so suddenly may well be Rochester's largest village. And it will be a village which, by the admission of the men who are planning it, has not located a water supply and has found no long-range solution to the solid waste disposal problem. The solution, according to documents on file in the Accord Town Hall, is to sink artesian wells in our newest "village" and dump their solid wastes (including human, presumably, unless they plan to run their flower gardens on night soil) in the Rochester town dump. In case you have not paid for one lately, town dumps are expensive to fill up and develop anew someplace else. We had to open a new one in Rochester last year and it cost us something around the price of about nine new Oldsmobiles.

Our Town Board meets this Thursday (Feb. 6th) in Accord to set a hearing date on this rezoning petition. Many of us here in Rochester are expecting that the date be set a good long time away. We have a number of serious economic questions which require study before we decide whether we look forward with pain or pleasure to the new "village" the owners of Minnewaska resort are promising us. The problem is that while many of us love what your editorial called "the priceless beauty Minnewaska" we fear the development project will carry a very stiff price tag for us.

Some of the economic problems we must study are what our possible new and sudden residents will do to our taxes, what their children will do to our school system, what their cars will do to our roads, what their waste will do to our dump, what their fires will do to themselves, what their problems will do to the price we must pay for our police.

There are many more economic problems, the above is just a small suggestion of what lies behind the development for all of us.

Now all these problems come to us because, as your editorial points out, "They (the owners of Lake Minnewaska resort) explain that not only have operating costs soared, but their taxes ... totalled the formidable sum of $111,252 in 1974."

Well, the taxes on the land on which I live are formidable. I took a straw poll among my neighbors and like the owners of the Minnewaska resort, we all report that we are paying formidable taxes. And we have only to drive over to Frank Purcell's gas station and General Store in Allgerville to realize that our operating expenses have soared just like Minnewaska resort's have.

To help us with our "formidable taxes" and soaring operating expenses, I admit it might have crossed some of our minds to do as Minnewaska resort is doing, to get a zoning variance or a full rezoning and open a business where it isn't now allowed to bring up the cash flow. I live on the Clove Road. I confess it has crossed my mind that a hot dog stand or a bowling alley might bring me quite a lot of money from the local residents and the literally thousands of summer visitors whom come into this area. But I am able to restrain myself from the temptation of this lucrative business because I know that it would cause hardship to my neighbors and pollute and destroy the land and streams. Now, to help me restrain myself, the Town Fathers of Rochester drew up a zoning law. If I went to them and asked that they put me above the law so I could open my hot dog stand, I'm pretty sure they would turn me down, pointing out — quite correctly — that the law is for everyone and not just us poor formidable taxpayers with soaring expenses.

Now I wonder what is the difference between my thousand dollar hot dog stand on the Clove Road and Minnewaska resort's many, many, many thousand dollar development not four miles away from me? The land is similar, if not identical. Part of their project will go up on this very same Clove Road and a few hundred feet from it. Many of the economic and social conditions five miles from here hold for where I sit writing this letter. So what is the difference between the Minnewaska development project and my hot dog stand except size? If the Town Fathers grant Minnewaska their rezoning request, how are they going to refuse me mine? And if we have ours, what are the two businessmen on this very same Clove Road who had their zoning variances requests turned down recently going to feel about it? In short, the Minnewaska development project, if approved, leaves the Rochester Town Zoning Laws in a shambles. I'm willing to give up my hot dog stand in order to see that catastrophe not happen.

So, you see, the rezoning storm abrew over the Shawangunks is something much more than, as I fear your editorial might have implied, questions of "idle land" which brings in "no return except one of an aesthetic nature." The Minnewaska project brings up serious questions of equality under the law, indeed the very rule of law. It brings up serious economic questions. The battle is not harried only people against nature nuts. The battle raging right now in the Shawangunks is economic and both sides had better recognize it for what it is.

I do agree with the main point of your editorial. It surely does behoove "the three towns involved, and various state agencies to make doubly sure after intensive investigation that the area's forest and streams remain relatively unspoiled." I hope this Thursday night when they meet, the Rochester Town Board sets a hearing date far enough in the future to allow us all to do our homework on this problem. And I hope to see a Freeman reporter around the Accord Town Hall. You might even start this Thursday. There should certainly be some interesting copy coming out of some of those Town Board meetings.

Sincerely,
Lance S. Belville

Granada Builders Approved...City Hall Controversy Flares Again

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Common Council gave its unanimous approval to Granada Builders Inc. of Port Ewen who are expected to start construction on a $1.5 million shopping plaza in Broadway East this spring.

Surprisingly, there was almost no comment from the aldermen, with only Brian Smith (Third Ward), the Council's lone Republican, lauding the developers for not seeking a tax abatement which he said was "a good sign."

The developers paid the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency $25,000 for the five-acre parcel just below the new city hall.

The old city hall at 408 Broadway was again a topic of debate, fueled this time by accusations by George V. Hutton, an uptown architect, who contended the aldermen would be avoiding responsibility by putting the repair of the building to referendum as proposed by two of the Council's members.

"I'm sure the sponsors look upon it as a way of avoiding doing anything about it until November," Hutton charged. Hutton also labled cost estimates of $1.5 million for the repair of the building as "utterly deceptive," and further suggested that the idea the taxpayers would bear the entire cost was deliberately "misleading."

Hutton noted the availability of federal funds and the "self-liquidating" revenues the building would produce once it was rented.

Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), one of the sponsors of the referendum, reacted angrily to Hutton's allegations.

He contended the $1.5 million figure was realistic (Hutton's estimates are closer to $800,000) and said the figure included new wiring, plumbing, heating, roofing and parking.

"It's only fair to let the people know there are no federal funds, that it will be their complete burden," Quick said. "Hutton has never come forth with one nickel. He never told us where any money was."

Hutton then asked to rebut Quick but was refused permission to speak further by Council President T. Robert Gallo.

Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) revealed that "75 per cent" of the Community Development Advisory Council which he chairs "were in accordance to tear it down. It's no good. It's an eyesore. It's in our way. The majority wanted to tear it down."

Alderman Philip DeCicco (D-Ninth Ward), the other sponsor of the referendum said "it's only fair to bring it to the public. If Historic Landmarks wants it restored, fine. Let them come up with the money."

Alderman Emillio A. Primo then gave a brief report of a trip he made to Washington on Jan. 28 with the mayor, Hutton and Harry M. Thayer. Primo reported essentially what has been reported, that the General Services Administration would be receptive to renting the building if it were repaired. Monies for that would have to come from the National Historic Trust, which advised the Kingston delegation to contact officials in Albany who administer the money. "We were never told to go home," Primo said. "We could have stayed as long as we wanted."

The aldermen also raised the senior citizen exemption from $5,000 to $6,000, retroactive to last month.

Workshop Aids Abandonment Foes

By WADE BURKHART

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dealing with the federal government is a complex business, dealing with the railroads is as bad if not worse, and an Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) representative tried to make things a bit more systematic Tuesday for a group of Mid-Hudson leaders of business, industry and government who are going to deal with both at the same time.

Congress has passed an act which allows for the setting up of a consolidated railway system from the currently trouble-plagued Northeast railways, and set up an agency known as the U. S. Railway Association (USRA) to recommend to it what the new "Conrail" system should look like.

Indications are that Conrail will omit large number of branchlines, including some vital to the Mid-Hudson area, in the view of many observers.

The preliminary Conrail plan is to be submitted by USRA Feb. 26, with ICC hearings on it tentatively to start March 17.

To let those who oppose the abandonment of their branch lines know how to prepare proper testimony for the ICC hearings, Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress and the ICC sponsored a meeting in Poughkeepsie Tuesday with Gladys Kessler, of the ICC's Public Counsel Office, the main speaker.

Her agency is not taking any stand on the abandonment of specific branch lines. "We are just encouraging everyone who wants to make the best case they can," she said. "You have that right."

The main strategy, according to Ms. Kessler's presentation, seems to be to beat the USRA at its own game. Despite the reservations many opponents, and even the ICC, have about the formulae the USRA is using to determine which lines get into Conrail and which don't, Ms. Kessler urged all the abandonment opponents to use the USRA formulae, inserting their own data.

A great deal of doubt has arisen about the accuracy of the data supplied to the USRA by the railroads, the suspicion being that the railroads made their economic situation look a lot worse than it is.

USRA representative Daniel Priest, at a recent meeting in Montgomery, indicated that the USRA was concerned with profitability, to the practical exclusion of other considerations, in forming the new Conrail system.

One problem with playing by the USRA's rules is the way it has designated the branches and what it considers a branch. The line from Maybrook to Hopewell Junction has become two separate lines, each with a terminus in Highland, to cite one example.

As another example, the West Shore line, which stretches from Kingston to New Jersey, is called a "branch line" by the USRA.

One member of the audience complained to Ms. Kessler that some of the branch lines the USRA was studying for abandonment looked a lot more like main lines to him.

"This is what the USRA is calling them," she said. "You know you're right, and I know you're right, but it really doesn't make any difference."

The ICC's Public Counsel Office has suggested using a fat Branch Line Manual for the preparation of testimony, with lengthy forms to be used as questionnaires for both the rail lines and rail customers.

Committees have formed to oppose the abandonment of each of the branch lines, and they are going to have the burden of preparing the testimony for the ICC hearings.

There was some grumbling about the length and complexity of the suggested testimony forms; Ms. Kessler said she was not advocating the forms as the only way to prepare testimony, just the "best."

Fire at Alpine Restaurant

Firemen battle to put down flames which erupted Tuesday night in an apartment over the Alpine restaurant on DeWitt's Mills Road in Bloomington. The apartment, occupied by the Robert Sacks family, was gutted, and water damage was reported in the restaurant. There were no injuries. Some 50 firemen from five volunteer companies fought the flames for over two hours. The cause was not determined. (Freeman photo)

Grumblings at Gateway Over Lasting Effects of Bottled Deodorant

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

The odor still lingers at Gateway Industries' three-story rehabilitation center on Hoffman Street. And some clients and professional staff members apparently remain disgruntled over an irritating and mildly toxic chemical that they had to work with recently.

If it's any comfort, however, Gateway's executive director has indicated that the uncomfortable situation probably won't reoccur.

For a six-to-eight-week period in December and January, some 40 handicapped Gateway clients bottled approximately 220,000 quarterounce containers of a substance known as Super C.D. Concentrated Room deodorant. The manufacturers—Cracker Barrel Co. of West Babylon, N.Y.—claim in their advertising that a single drop of the liquid can deodorize a room for up to a month.

But it had a somewhat different effect on the workers at Gateway. There were reports of skin rashes, nausea, headaches and dizziness from among some of the handicapped people who worked with the substance every day. The effect of the fumes on others in the Gateway building were less serious, but no less discomforting.

Although the project ended two weeks ago, and the last of the substance has since been packaged and shipped out, it wasn't until Tuesday that some apparent dissatisfaction among Gateway workers was made public. An anonymous, four-paragraph letter—which outlined suspected health dangers of the chemical, listed symptoms that have afflicted those who worked closely with it, and criticized the Gateway administration for refusing to halt the project—was distributed among the local media.

Whomever wrote the letter indicated in the opening paragraph that they could lose their jobs at Gateway should their identities become known.

James Penrose, Gateway's executive director, confirmed Tuesday that there were complaints among the Gateway clients and staff about the chemical, and that it apparently was responsible for some physical discomfort among some to the workers.

But Penrose emphasized that all possible precautions were taken to protect Gateway's handicapped clients; that the substance itself was not considered seriously toxic; and that workers who complained of symptoms or who were obviously allergic to the substance were immediately transferred to other areas of the building.

Penrose told the Freeman that before Gateway accepted the packaging contract—which entailed transferral of the liquid from 55-gallon drums to individual quarterounce containers—an analysis of the substance's ingredients was obtained from the state's Poison Control Center.

The analysis noted, in part, that the small amount of methyl salicylate present in the containers would not cause toxic symptoms, except perhaps possible irritation of mucous membranes.

Despite the report's conclusions, some of the handicapped workers did suffer toxic symptoms after prolonged exposure to the chemical.

The Freeman spoke privately with a number of Gateway clients who worked on the bottling project. One woman said she sustained a severe rash on her arms after working with the liquid and that the rash still has not completely disappeared; another said the fumes caused severe itching on her hands and arms; a third said her eyes watered when she worked near the liquid.

Others, however, said they weren't bothered by the fumes and, at the time, had no objections to the job. But all the workers interviewed, as well as some others who did not work directly with the substance, said the odor that permeated the building during that 6-8 week period was unpleasant.

Part of the reason, said Penrose, was that one of the 55-gallon drums where the liquid was stored developed a leak which soaked a portion of the wooden floor. The stains from that leak are still evident, along with a mild, but distinguishable, odor from the spilled liquid.

Penrose confessed that he would be "reluctant" to let the Gateway clients work with the substance in the future, but he pointed out that that the building is now equipped with a vacuum chamber that would effectively dispose of the annoying fumes.

And, while acknowledging that some people at Gateway were indeed inconvenienced by the whole affair, Penrose did emphasize that the workers were paid some $3,300 in salaries for the project—which may have helped to alleviate at least some of the aggravation.

Housing Codes, Sewage Control Discussed

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

Housing codes, control of sewage discharge, and other matters affecting the quality of life got a thorough going over at Tuesday night's informational meeting in the Ulster County Office Building.

Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto served as moderator for the program, sponsored by the Ulster County Department of Health.

Thomas R. Trainer, a senior field engineer from the Housing and Building Codes Bureau office in Poughkeepsie, reviewed the state building inspection code originally enacted in 1950. Trainer said the code has undergone numerous revisions to meet new requirements.

He cited as one example new fire protection ideas for high-rise buildings adopted because "so-called 'fireproof' buildings are not." He also noted that the current energy shortage has had an effect, with new building requirements for one and two-family homes being changed to require heavier insulation.

"The conversion to LP gas in many places also poses many fire protection problems," he noted.

Trainer's office has been given additional duties because of advances in building technology, he said. As examples he cited the bureau's supervision of factory manufactured homes shipped to building sites by truck, and also the inspection of mobile homes, which must meet strict new state requirements before they can be occupied.

Don Mekulik, building inspector for the Town of Wawarsing, spoke of town problems in the field, saying that many problems were caused by non-conforming uses.

In response to a question, Mekulik said that a mobile home, even if it is on a foundation, does not comply with the state building code because roof and floor loadings are less than state requirements, among other things. He also noted that state laws make a definite distinction between mobile homes and trailers.

John Power, Ulster County director of environmental sanitation, described the procedure builders must follow in applying for State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) approval.

SPDES approval is needed for all surface water discharges into state waters of up to 10,000 gallons a day, with federal approval needed for more than 10,000 gallons, and for all subsurface discharges, he noted.

George Radcliff, Kingston building inspector, described the work of his department in handling the city's 10,800 buildings. His department is actually charged with three responsibilities, he noted, explaining that is the chief investigation office for the housing commission and that the building inspector also serves as clerk of the zoning board of appeals, "a job in itself."

Stolen Car Ring Trial Underway

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

Testimony is expected to begin Thursday in the trial of the Port Ewen owner of a Milton auto shop who, at the time of his arrest nearly two years ago, was said to be among the upper echelon of a huge interstate stolen car ring.

Frederick Harold Holmes, 41, of 181 Salem Street, Port Ewen, is being tried in county court on a 34-count indictment returned against him on Dec. 19, 1973.

The indictment charges Holmes with seven counts each of first and third degree criminal possession of stolen property, 12 counts of second degree criminal possession of stolen property, seven counts of illegal possession of vehicle identification number plates and one count of third degree conspiracy.

Holmes was arrested by state police BCI investigators in August, 1973, in what was then described as the first major step in breaking up one of the most active interstate stolen car rings ever to exist in Ulster County.

Other arrests followed, and at one point about 50 vehicles with a total value of well over $100,000 were reported recovered in numerous eastern seaboard states.

Investigators said at the time that many of the cars were apparently being stolen "on order" from New York City and were allegedly delivered to Milton Auto Wreckers where they were altered for sale in other states.

Presentation of the case to the grand jury took about six weeks, during which time some 50 witnesses were reportedly called to give testimony. The witness list for the trial is also expected to be lengthy, but just how long the trial will take remains to be seen.

Jury selection in the case concluded in county court Tuesday, with County Judge Raymond J. Mino presiding. The case was adjourned until Thursday. Holmes is represented by attorney Charles J. Saccoman. First Assistant DA Ellen G. Donovan is prosecuting the case.

In other matters in county court Tuesday William Mendel, 33, and Ms. Mano DeCarlo, 33, both of Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties, entered pleas of guilty to charges of sixth degree criminal possession of a controlled substance (marijuana). The charges stemmed from an Aug. 7, 1974 arrest when a quantity of marijuana was seized during execution of a search warrant. The case was adjourned.

To Ration Or Not

Should there be gas rationing or should there be higher prices for gas, thereby presumably cutting down consumption?

It's a vital question, not only very much on the minds of Ulster County residents, but our representatives in Washington and, of course, President Ford, as well.

Rationing opponents, including President Ford, claim the move would not work because of various problems, such as the threat of a black market and a reported restrictive 9-gallon per week limit.

Oral Cancer Exam Set

KINGSTON
A free two-minute oral cancer examination will be offered to shoppers at Kingston Plaza Saturday between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Volunteer dentists from the Kingston area will conduct a visual survey of the mouth in a temporary dental facility at the plaza. The completely painless examination will be offered to all persons 30 years of age or older.

"Cancer of the mouth is one of the easiest forms of cancer to detect at an early age," said Dr. Herbert G. Spieske, secretary of the Third District Dental Society, which represents more than 300 practicing dentists in seven counties of eastern New York. "It is to everyone's benefit to take advantage of this important service as a health precaution."

Patients found with suspected lesions will be referred to their own dentists for a more complete examination and evaluation, said Dr. Spieske.

Recycling Center Slated to Open Saturday

WOODSTOCK
A permanent recycling center will open in Woodstock Saturday, Feb. 8 on Rock City Road and will be open during daylight hours each day.

Residents will no longer have to save their recyclable glass, paper and aluminum for weekend drives, according to Gregory G. Gebert.

The center has been constructed on the newly acquired town property at the rear of the former St. Joan of Arc Church. Created under the auspices of the Woodstock Commission for the Conservation of the Environment with the assistance of the Woodstock Civic Arts Council, the center will initially be operated by volunteers under the direction of Recycling Chairman, Mrs. Lynda Joslyn. Plans presently call for transfer of the operation to Family, the Woodstock-based United Way Community Assistance Center.

Successful operation of the center will be largely dependent upon a high degree of cooperation by residents, who are asked to adhere to recycling "do's and don'ts" as follows:

- Do clean bottles and sort by color (clear, brown, green). Filthy bottles are unpleasant for volunteers to handle, and can attract vermin when crushed.
- Do bundle and tie paper into conveniently handled packages. Another easy means of packaging paper is to fill a supermarket shopping bag with newspapers.

• Do remove metal rings from the necks of bottles. These rings contaminate the crushed glass and render it unusable. If you don't remove the rings, volunteers will have to. A nut pick is a convenient instrument to use for this simple operation.

• Don't deposit garbage at the recycling center. The landfill is available for this purpose, and is the only place where garbage may be placed without violating Town ordinances, which are punishable by fine.

• Don't be fooled by cans that say "aluminum" on the top. Only all-aluminum cans are acceptable. These cans are recognizable by the absence of a seam on the side or bottom, and the fact that a magnet will not stick to the side.

• Don't recycle magazines. The glossy pages and covers of magazines contain clay and inks which reduce the quality of the recycled paper and are not acceptable by the paper recycling companies.

Kiwanis Club to Hear Speaker

KINGSTON
Timothy J. Sullivan, Supervising Park Ranger with the Palisades Interstate Park Commission, will give an illustrated talk on Minnewaska State Park on Thursday at the luncheon meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the

A resident of Chester, he is responsible for the organization and planning of forest fire control for all state park land in Orange, Rockland, Ulster and Sullivan Counties.

Sullivan also is responsible for interior recreation in relation to hiking and hiking trail shelters. He handles wildlife management and works in close conjunction with the hunting programs permitted in specified areas on state land.

Vett Calls for Open Government

NEW PALTZ
John G. Vett, Independent Party candidate for mayor of the Village of New Paltz, has issued a campaign statement calling for open government. Vett stated that he understood "open government" to mean "that the business of government is carried on in full view of the public."

"It would be my purpose as mayor," Vett stated, "to see that the people of New Paltz have a chance to contribute to the decision-making that goes on in government."

He said there would be some situations requiring privacy because of the involvement of personalities. "But when the issue is settled," he said, "then the results should become public forthwith."

Vett said there would continue to be discussion by the public at village board meetings, if he were elected, with the public's opinion considered when the decisions were made.

He said the "most important document" the village board prepared is the budget, and indicated he might favor a "preliminary budget hearing" to hear the public before the formal public hearing is held on the complete budget.

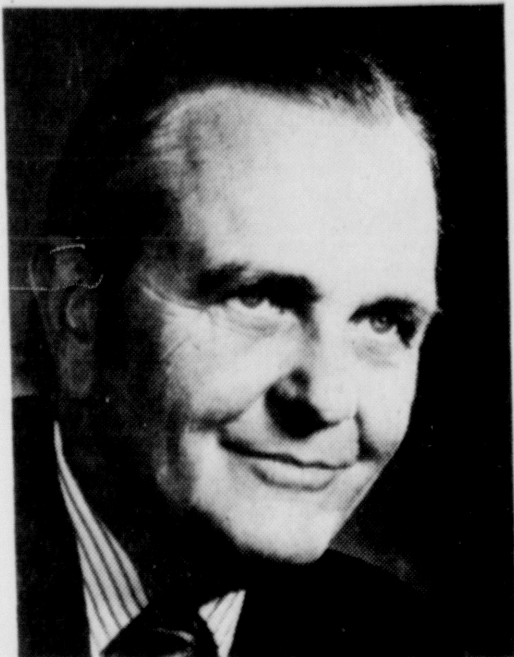

Vett said he intended to spend two or three half days per week in the Village Hall, to be available to the public, if he were elected.

His nominating petitions are being circulated now, and Vett said he had been gratified by the response. He said it was hoped that all parts of the village will have been covered when the petitions are turned in by Feb. 25.

Vett said anyone wanting to discuss a particular issue with him may call him personally at home.

Area Achievers At Conference

Nine teenagers from the eight-area Junior Achiever Companies recently spent a three-day weekend in Rochester for the 1975 New York State Junior Achievement Conference.

Janetta Davis, treasurer and vice-president of personnel for Bundles and Trinkets, sponsored by Bankers Trust, was selected as one of the semi-finalists for the Miss Executive Contest.

Alan Roos, vice-president of personnel for JABS, sponsored by radio station WGHQ, had been elected at last year's convention to the position of vice-president at this year's convention. His main responsibility was to coordinate and manage the committee assigned to preparing and carrying out the election of officers for next year's convention.

Each of the achievers came from one of the eight Junior Achiever Companies located in Kingston, Ontario, Saugerties and Ellenville. Other attendees were: Kathy Goldstone, president of JATROL, a company sponsored by Hucktrol; Ellen Schoenherr, president of JABS; Maureen Sweeney in

Commission Coordinator to Present Film on Catskills At UCCC

STONE RIDGE
Peter Bromley, Natural Resources Coordinator for the

Catskill Study Commission, will present a film entitled "Challenge to Our Catskills"

Monday, Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The film presentation, which is open to the college community and the public without charge, will be shown in the College Lounge of John Vanderlyn Hall.

In addition to showing the 30-minute movie, which focuses on regional problems, will also discuss a report being prepared for the Commission dealing with the region's natural resources. A question and answer period will follow the presentation.

The film, which was prepared in cooperation with the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development, covers areas in Ulster, Sullivan, Greene, Delaware, Schoharie, Otsego and Albany Counties. Among the features it shows in Ulster County are white water canoe races on the Esopus Creek in Phoenicia, hiking in the Slide Mountain area, shots of IBM Kingston, the Catskill Park and the Ashokan Reservoir.

An avid outdoorsman and naturalist, Bromley has been with the Catskill Commission since July, 1973, and was instrumental in the planning and filming of "Challenge to Our Catskills."

Raised in Delmar, south of Albany, Bromley attended Cornell University and earned his Master's Degree in Animal Behavior and Wildlife Management from the University of Montana. He has continued his studies on big game animals as part of a doctorate program at the University of Calgary in Alberta, Canada.

An avid wildlife photographer, Bromley resides in the Delaware County community of Stamford, where the Catskill Study Commission is based.

The Feb. 24 film program is being sponsored by the Community Relations Office at UCCC.

Ulster 'to Borrow' Mobile Health Unit

KINGSTON
Ulster County Health Department, concerned over the health of migrant workers who arrive here each summer to help with the corn and fruit harvest, will attempt "to borrow" a mobile health screening unit from Dutchess County.

The neighboring county has such a unit which it reportedly is not using at present.

Ulster would like to put the vehicle on the road for one month in August of this year as a pilot project for a possible permanent mobile health program not only for migrants but perhaps for the benefit of local residents in need of such service.

The vehicle would be staffed by a public health nurse and social workers and aides from the migrant camps, according to Miss Helen Geneis, director of nurses for the Ulster County Health Department.

Among the services that would be rendered would be screening for hypertension by taking blood pressure, urinalysis to detect possible diabetes and vision, height, weight and other tests. Medical histories would also be taken for future use should a migrant worker or family member become ill at a subsequent date.

The project would be funded with federal dollars already allocated to the migrant program here.

Antiques Flea Market Set for Mammoth Mall

BEARSVILLE Mammoth Mall, Kingston's only enclosed shopping center, will be the site of an unusual and lively antiques flea market on Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22. Admission is free.

The event is being organized and directed by local antique show managers Carole and Don Rhoades of Bearsville, also known as Hudson Valley Shows. In planning this antiques flea market the managers were motivated by a considerable amount of expressed interest by both dealers and the antiques-buying public for an event of this nature at this time of year. Most antiques flea markets, needless to say, take place outdoors during the spring, summer and fall, but this one is taking place indoors in the heated promenade which surrounds the Mall.

Everyone who enjoys nostalgia should come and browse, for in addition to antiques (objects over 100 years old,) there will be collectibles and nostalgic items, memories to take one back in time with comments like "I remember when my grandmother had one of those, and threw it away!"

Fortunately, a lot of grandmothers didn't throw things away, and so antique shows such as this one can open us all up to the fascinating world of the past.

The hours of the show will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. both days. Anyone interested in displaying should contact the Rhoades.

Wagner could run a larger ad here, but we would rather have more financial aid money for you.

Thanks to the Tuition Assistance Program — TAP — prospective college students living in New York State can get financial aid that may make Wagner's cost comparable to the cost of the State University of New York.

This is a new source of financial aid based on your parents' net taxable income (income after deductions). For example, if your parents have a net taxable income of $12,000, TAP would provide $670 to help cover the cost of tuition at Wagner.

The TAP program in no way reduces Wagner's present financial aid commitment to students, where in 1973-74 more than 950 students received $800,000 in aid or grants.

For the 1975-76 academic year, a full-time student will pay $2600 in tuition to attend Wagner College.

Remember, when TAP isn't enough, Wagner aid may still be available.

Shoe-Town Corporation Reports Record Highs

TOWSON, N.J.

Sales of The Felsway Corporation (American and Pacific Stock Exchanges) for the nine months and third quarter ended Nov. 30, rose to record highs but earnings were relatively unchanged, it has been announced by Lionel M. Levey, president.

Sales for the nine months rose 10.2 per cent to $37,843,000 from the prior high of $34,353,000 for the 1973 period. Net income for the nine months ended November 30, 1974 increased to $1,236,000 or 89 cents a share from $1,222,000 or 88 cents a share for the corresponding period a year earlier.

In the third quarter, sales gained 6.5 per cent to $13,164,000 from $12,361,000 for the three months ended Dec. 1, 1973. Net earnings were $435,000 compared with $433,000 for the 1973 period. Earnings per share amounted to 31 cents for both periods.

"Merchandising and inventory controls helped reduce mark-downs for the nine months, but increases in operating costs continued to put pressure on earnings," according to Levey.

This fiscal year Felsway has opened 11 new shoe stores and four Milmar leased departments.

Felsway is the parent owner of Shoe-Town stores. A Shoe-Town store in the Kingston, N.Y. area is located at Shop-Rite Square, Ulster Avenue Mall.

Sterley, Deitrick Reelected at HV Federal

KINGSTON
John B. Sterley has been reelected chairman of the board and Robert E. Deitrick president of Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association, with the main office at 235 Fair Street.

Sterley also was re-appointed general counsel while reappointed associate counsels were Benjamin P. Roosa Jr., Edward J. Murtaugh and Robert A. MacKinnon.

Directors reelected for three-year terms were George C. Swart, Harry Halverson, Roland A. Augustine and Robert A. MacKinnon. Other directors include H. Stanley Bond, Joseph J. Kelly, David J. Lewittes, Richard E. Martineau, Clair S. Sheaffer, Samuel Shulman and George Svirsky. President Deitrick also is a director.

President Deitrick, in his annual report, said 1975 should be an interesting and challenging year. "If we take one day at a time, make careful decisions and adopt an optimistic attitude, I am confident that we will all benefit immeasurably," Deitrick said.

Looking back on 1974, Deitrick said the uptown banking institution continued to grow despite the poor condition of the economy.

"We did better than average based on preliminary data from the U.S. Savings League. Our net savings increase for the year was $3,586,000 or 6 per cent. This was twice the national average. Our assets at the beginning of the year were $78,512,000 and at year-end were $86,166,000, a growth of $7,654,000 or 10 per cent. The national average was 8 per cent.

"Total dividends paid were $3,787,000 and were at the highest rates permitted by law in the U.S. We made 454 mortgage loans totaling $18,900,000. Despite extremely high rates for Federal Home Loan Bank advances, higher dividends, and increased operating expenses, we still managed to transfer $231,000 to retained earnings," Deitrick explained.

Three college scholarships, totaling $6,000, were offered as a result of a "logo" contest to develop an eagle symbol for the bank, the president said. The first prize of $3,000 went to Vita Taormina of Monroe, Orange County. And through another promotion, he said, a decision was made to call the eagle "Earnie Eagle."

Another key development during 1974, Deitrick said, was the completion of the second story addition to the main office building. The addition consists of a new board room, employee lounge and four office areas.

"Since 1970, Hudson Valley Federal Savings has continued its dominant role as an originator or mortgage loans to be sold to the State of New York Mortgage Agency. In 1974, we sold $5,300,000 of loans to the agency in two separate offering plans. From a total of 131 banking institutions servicing $361,000,000, our share alone represents about $14,000,000. At the end of the Agency's current fiscal year, Hudson Valley Federal was the largest servicer of loans in the entire state," Deitrick concluded.

Caldor Bucked Trend for Growth Last Year

NORWALK, CONN.

Caldor, the regional discount department store chain, bucked the generally downward trend last year to become one of the national leaders in the retail field, according to a feature article in a recent issue of Barron's, a highly-regarded business newspaper published by Dow Jones, Inc.

"Caldor for a decade has rung up uninterrupted growth in sales while profits, with only one down year in the span (1966) have not been far behind," the article said. "This fiscal year (ending Jan. 25, 1975) promises to extend that bright pattern."

The Barron's article said Caldor's sales for the fiscal year ending this month may hit around $190 million with net earnings around $14.5 a share. Company officials citing a long-standing policy of not making earnings projections, declined to comment on this.

According to Barron's, controls are further enhanced by an extensive training program and a policy of promotion from within.

"President Carl Bennett recently noted that the company is financially able to open 'at least five or more stores each year for the next few years.' The investment in a new store for inventory and fixture fixtures runs around $1.2 million at current prices," the article continued.

"Caldor expects fiscal 1976 operations to be enhanced by increasingly price-conscious consumers. In addition, the company will derive increasing profits from the new stores opened in 1973 and early 1974. Combined with the added stimulus from still newer stores, this should assure further sales and earnings gains," according to the article.

Caldor, Inc. common stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

A Caldor Store in Kingston, N.Y., is located on Ulster Avenue Mall.

At Dixx We Care.....

Knicks, LA Have Known Better Times

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two years ago they played each other for the National Basketball Association championship. Tuesday night they met as a pair of struggling teams, each entering the game 10½ games behind their respective division leaders.

The vicissitudes of basketball, a philosopher in sneakers once said, are indeed many, but for the New York Knicks and Los Angeles Lakers, they have pretty much been for the worse.

"Everybody gets fat on us this season," said Cazzie Russell after his 18-point second half explosion failed to rally the listless and confused Lakers and the Knicks scored an easy 109-94 victory.

Russell remembers the championship days he spent with the Knicks five years ago but he's now surrounded by a patchwork Los Angeles team solidly entrenched in last place. Injuries, especially Russell's knee that required surgery, have set the Lakers back, but the Knicks, who lost Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere and Jerry Lucas to retirement, are also not what they used to be.

New York, though, made a deal last week that should at least assure the team a playoff spot and may even carry the Knicks past the first two rounds. Neal Walk, a good shooter and passer, and Jim Barnett, a quick and strong driving guard, were acquired last week from New Orleans for guard Henry Bibby, a No. 1 draft choice and cash.

Walk will share the pivot with skinny John Gianelli the rest of the season and thereby give the Knicks depth at center and forward they haven't enjoyed since that last championship season. Phil Jackson can stop doubling at center and concentrate on being one of the best reserve forwards in the league.

Red Holzman is trying to find out which combinations work best and against the Lakers, he used just about all of them. Gianelli, who readily admits he needed the competition and presence of another center to ignite the fire in him, started against Los Angeles and made himself felt with a couple of blocked shots and nine rebounds in 35 minutes. Walk added five rebounds while still adjusting and between them, the two centers scored 24 points, much more than the Knicks usually have gotten from the pivot.

Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe remain the strength of the Knicks' game and the backcourt duo had 20 points apiece while holding guards Lucius Allen and Gail Goodrich to 15 and 10.

With Russell working himself back into shape, Los Angeles, on paper, appears to have the personnel capable of at least making the playoffs.

Happy Hairston is still a fine rebounder and Brian Winters can complement him well at forward. The Lakers are most disappointing at center, where seven-foot Elmore Smith just hasn't done the job expected of him. Smith is averaging about 10 rebounds a game and against New York, he managed only three rebounds.

But then, the Knicks know all about having problems in the pivot.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday, Bob McAdoo reeled off 39 points, but Philadelphia put the clamp on the rest of the Buffalo Braves and beat them, 111-105, in overtime; Golden State edged Houston, 107-105, with Rick Barry hitting for 38 points; Atlanta ripped Cleveland, 111-97, behind Tom Henderson's 14 third quarter points; Phoenix nipped Washington, 90-89, with Dick Van Arsdale scoring a season-high 30 points; and Chicago downed Portland, 102-90, Bob Love pumping in 38 points.

Crazy Horse

New Knick Jim Barnett (25), nicknamed "Crazy Horse" for his unpredictable style of play, descends on a cringing Gail Goodrich, of the Lakers, as he goes up to block shot during Tuesday night's game. Knicks won, 109-94. (UPI)

Power Play

Mighty Fallsburgh High took on Coleman again Tuesday night, and while Statesman A. J. Maneen (32) was able to muscle his way in front of Barry Davis for this rebound (L), Comets' coach Jim McDermott (above) had more to cheer about than his counterpart Bill DuBois (far R). Fallsburgh won, 90-71. (Freeman photos by Haines)

Statesmen Run Out of Miracles

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

Referee Bob McGill tossed the ball up between the two centers at mid court. Six-foot-four Sam Copeland soared high above Pete Gallagher and tapped it to six-foot-six Al Smith. Copeland then wheeled out of the circle, took Smith's pass and fired a 25-footer that never hit the rim. It took three seconds. There would be no more miracles for the Coleman High Statesmen.

Fallsburgh went on to satisfy itself with a 90-71 victory here Tuesday night. The recent Coleman upset of Liberty didn't scare the Comets for one minute.

"They're a great ball club," said Coleman coach Bill DuBois after the game. DuBois was in a more mellow mood than he was the last time these teams played. For one reason, the Comets didn't run up a humiliating score, and for another his underdogs played a respectable game.

It was all Fallsburgh from the opening tap. The Comets missed a few shots during the early going, so they had "only" 23 points in the first quarter. Their full court press, however more than kept the Statesmen at bay.

In the second quarter the Comets did what the fans came to watch—stuff the ball in the hole. Copeland went down into the right corner and started to fire away; Dave Hinton hit from long range; Barry Davis, the hawk on the point of the press, started a pile of layups. It was 58-20 at halftime, and Copeland already had 20 points.

That is the way most Fallsburgh games have gone this year. The Comets lost once to Liberty, but no other game has even been close. The power of the attack and the effectiveness of the defense has surprised even its designer, coach Jim McDermott.

"I knew we'd have a winning team," he said before the game, "but I didn't know how winning. We lost some good people off last year's team."

But Fallsburgh obviously had a few good people back, like Copeland and the Davis's and the unheralded Smith whom McDermott calls the "best deep man on the press we've had."

They make a super team which is why DuBois didn't feel too glum. His squad played the Comets almost dead even in the third quarter.

"We got a little confidence back," said DuBois. "At first we were a little intimidated and were pulling up on our shots."

The Statesmen stopped shooting air balls and began hitting the boards. A.J. Maneen and Pete Gallagher came up with a few second efforts, and Gallagher in particular started to squirm loose underneath. They weren't in the ball game by any means, but the pride of the moment kept them going.

A streak of eight straight Coleman points, fueled by Fallsburgh turnovers of all things, highlighted the period. Coleman stayed hot, and when the Comet bench came on to play the fourth period, the Statesmen reserves continued chipping away until the final deficit was only 19 points. A small victory maybe, but even that is rare against Fallsburgh.

Gallagher finished with a game high 31 points, and he earned it. Maneen had 14, and Copeland led Fallsburgh with 30.

The winners remained tied for first place in Division I with Liberty, but at least one person came away from the game with a firm belief of how the league will eventually end up.

"I'll take Fallsburgh," DuBois said flatly. In the junior varsity battle, Billy Robertson pumped in 20 points as Coleman came away with a 51-44 victory.

Red Hook and Marlboro Upset Victims

KINGSTON

Who woulda thunk it? Just when the Ulster County Athletic League's Division II was settling into a nice, consistent pattern, the co-leaders in the basketball race ma nage to get themselves upset on the same night.

"We were a bunch of wa termelon heads," said Red Hook High coach Rod Chando whose Raiders were bumped off by New Paltz, 61-60. But the sting went away in a hurry for Chando when he learned Marlboro dropped a double overtime battle to Walkill, 65-60. That leaves both teams still tied in Division II with 8-3 records.

Elsewhere in the league, Highland crept to within two games of Marlboro and Red Hook with a 75-40 victory over Ontario, and Liberty stayed tied with Fallsburgh at 11-1 by pounding Ellenville 115-39. In another close contest, Pine Bush edged Rondout, 53-52.

New Paltz hustled all night long, conquered the Raider press, and never fell behind. "I think Red Hook was a little fat," said victorious Hugie coach John Wirth.

Lorenzo Simmons led the upset with 23 points, but it was lanky Jay Egan who hit the one that counted. After Red Hook had struggled back to knot the score at 59-all, Egan scored his 12th point of the game to provide the winning margin with only 14 seconds left to play.

"We had our chances," said Chando, "but New Paltz ran us out of the gym. They just outstayed us."

Mark Gravino had the last Raider chance, a one-and-one with five seconds showing. He only got the first half. Red Hook even got the ball back after that, but a desperation shot at the buzzer failed.

Pesky Walkill, a 1-10 club going into the game, had mighty Marlboro all tangled up. Behind Tom Berryann's 18 points, it was 50-50 after regulation, and 54-54 after the first overtime.

The Dukes slipped into the lead at 60-59, but Walkill's Mark Aller came down with a clutch rebound and put it back up to push the Panthers in front. After that, Berryann and Felix Feliciano made the most of the bonus situation to provide the winners with four more points.

Jeff Gersch had eight points in the first period and finished the game with 18 to lead Highland, OCS never left the starting gate against the Big Blue. It was 24-6 after one quarter, and Highland went on to climb above .500 for the year.

Pine Bush put on some kind of finish to overtake the G nders. Trailing by ten at the start of the final period, Bushman coach George Drutman said: "We went to a half court trap, and it worked pretty well. We forced their shots and stole the ball a few times, and they hit only one of 11 from the field."

Bob Foote hit a pair of free throws to boost the winners to a 5150 lead, then Bob Bolebruch iced it with a basket with only 14 seconds left in the game. The Bushmen won the final quarter, 15-4.

Reggie Biddings scored 31 points and Rae Bridges added 25 as Liberty rebounded to top Ellenville.

Beacon Stops Sawyers, 80-65

Down by only four points at the end of three quarters, Saugerties High ran into a cold shooting spell to drop an 80-65 basketball game to second place Beacon Tuesday.

The Bulldogs' win kept them in a tie with Poughkeepsie with 8-3 records, one game off the pace behind Kingston's 9-2 in the DCSL.

Poughkeepsie got by Roosevelt 80-66 Tuesday, and Lourdes raced past Spackenkill 76-56 to put Roosevelt and Lourdes in a tie for fourth place at 7-4.

The score was 52-48 Beacon with eight minutes to go, when the home team started hitting and running. "We were boxing out," said Sawyer coach Larry Marcus, "but their best offense was just to shoot and get the rebound."

Saugerties ran into "a lot of trouble" from the agile Beacon big man George Hughes, who crammed in 23 points, and Mike Armstrong, who added 19. The Beacon rebound advantage of 55 to 28 told that tale statistically.

And while the 15 point final difference was ample, Marcus noted that Saugerties was down by nine with two minutes left in the game before the Bulldogs ran off a string of six straight.

Chris Luley had another strong game, leading a seven man scoring attack with 22 points while Arnie Hackett had eleven and Scott Hunter ten for the losers.

Saugerties travels to Kingston Friday. "It would make our season if we could win that one," said Marcus, not just because it is an Ulster County rival but "because they're in first place."

The junior Sawyers emerged victorious, 67-61, with Steve Schaffer top scorer with 20 points.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee's shooting stand-out Bernard King is temporarily sidelined while officials probe the New Yorker's school records and answer the question of his playing eligibility.

The 6-6 Brooklyn, N.Y. freshman, who averages 27.9 points for the Vols, did not play on Monday night's 62-59 loss to Auburn and is not expected to play here Saturday against seventh-ranked Alabama.

Warren Brown, chief of NCAA infractions investigations, said that the university and the NCAA had conducted investigations into charges of grade-fixing on King's junior high school records.

"At that point two weeks ago, it seemed that the investigations were over," Brown said.

But Brown said that a careful check of the transcripts of the NCAA's Kansas City office turned up a discrepancy between the early transcripts and later ones.

He said a check at the school in Brooklyn confirmed that there was a question about grades in the ninth grade.

Several university officials then flew to New York to clear up questions about King's transcripts. Dr. Earl Ramer, chairman of the UT Faculty Athletics Committee, said that Athletic Director Bob Woodruff, Vice Chancellor Howard Aldmon and Charles Smith, executive assistant to the UT president, made the trip.

Ramer said that he, Woodruff, Coach Ray Mears and others met with King Tuesday morning and told him his athletic eligibility was in danger.

But Assistant Coach Stu Aberdeen, who recruited King, had the duty of telling the player of the eligibility problem.

"He cried," Aberdeen said. "He took it awfully hard. He can't understand how something is always coming up, just when he gets things going."

Elenora Simon, principal of Fort Hamilton High where King was graduated, said that it took about two weeks to check everything back to Sands Junior High and prepare a revised transcript for UT. "I really haven't the slightest idea whether any grades were altered," she said.

But Brown said that "it would appear that grades were altered. We have no idea who did it, if the cards were changed."

The issue revolves around King's ninth grade marks, and whether his grade point average will be 2.0 or better with them. It appeared that his ninth grade points would drop the overall record to 1.97.

If the studies now being made verify the lower mark, and no allowances are made, King would not be eligible to play again for the Vols until Feb. 3 of the 1976 season.

"This is the biggest disappointment of my life but I feel helpless," King said. "I don't know what happened and I don't know what to do about it. I don't remember anything about the junior high grades."

King said that he would remain in school and "try to get eligible for this same time next year. I'm not going to give up."

Maryland and North Carolina State continued along their merry way in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tuesday night but not without a scare.

Fourth-ranked Maryland blew a big lead and then had to go into a stall for nearly 2 1/2 minutes at the end to hold off Virginia 86-79. And North Carolina State, ranked No. 6, needed 39 points from All America David Thompson to withstand 15th-ranked Clemson 92-89.

Play the Big Boys, Laver Tells Connors

Jimmy Connors and Rod Laver have gone their separate ways after their $100,000 showdown in Las Vegas Sunday but the controversy still continues.

Connors defeated Laver in four sets for the $100,000 purse but Laver insists he's still not convinced.

Laver, who easily handled Californian Jim McManus, 6-3, 6-4, in the opening round of the $64,000 World Championship Tennis Blue Group tournament at St. Petersburg, Fla., Tuesday, still won't concede the No. 1 rating to the brash youngster from Belleville, Ill.

"I'm not No. 1 now and haven't been for several years but Jimmy isn't either," Laver said. "He just doesn't play that many tournaments against big competition. He's a good player, his return of service is tremendous, but he hasn't proved himself the best."

In other action at St. Petersburg, top-seed Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y., also had no trouble disposing of Anand Amritraj of India, 6-1, 6-1. Also, third-seeded Ismail El Shafei of Egypt ousted Rob Maud of South Africa, 6-3, 6-3; seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mt., Tenn., downed Ray Moore of South Africa, 6-2, 7-6; and fourth-seeded Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., defeated Australian Roy Emerson, 6-1, 6-2.

Raul Ramirez, who recently led Mexico over the U.S. in Davis Cup play, ousted Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 6-2, 6-4; Colin Dibley of Australia beat Vijay Amritraj of India, 6-7, 6-1, 7-5; and Australian Geoff Masters ousted Alvaro Betancur of Colombia, 6-3, 6-1.

Connors, meanwhile, was in Little Rock for the Arkansas International tournament and rolled to a 6-2, 7-6 win over Holland's Rolf Thung.

Connors, the defending champ, broke Thung's service in the third game of the first set and had little trouble thereafter. In the second set, Thung gave Connors some difficulty by attacking more often with his first service and moved ahead quickly.

Thung went on to take his service in the next game to move to a 4-1 lead and seemed headed to an unexpected second-set victory. But Connors won his own service, broke Thung's service in the seventh game and tied it 4-4 by serving a love game. Each then won service through the 12th game and at 6-6, Connors quickly ended it.

He won five straight points in the nine-point tie breaker in the 13th and deciding game.

In a preliminary match, unseeded Bob Kreiss of Beverly Hills ousted former Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 6-4.

In women's action at Richmond, Ohio, three seeded players in first-round play in the $75,000 Virginia Slims Tournament at the Midwest Coliseum advanced without much trouble.

Only Virginia Wade of England was forced to play three sets. She beat Laura DuPont of Charleston, N.C., 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. Francoise Durr of France blasted Jeanne Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 6-2 and Nancy Richey Gunter of Lake Livingston, Tex., eliminated Dianne Fromholtz of Australia, 7-5, 6-2.

In other first-round matches, Marcie Louie of San Francisco beat Ilana Kloss of South Africa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; Kathy Kuykendall of Miami beat Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3; Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia overpowered Betsy Nagelson of St. Petersburg, 6-2, 6-1; Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., defeated Linky Boshoff of South Africa, 7-5, 6-0; and Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo, Calif., eliminated Valerie Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif., 6-4, 7-6.

Red Foxes Rip Hawks

POUGHKEEPSIE — Earl Holmes poured in 24 points, and Ray Murphy added 22 more as the Marist College Red Foxes bombed New Paltz State, 99-76 here Tuesday night.

Braves Protest Move on Allen

NEW YORK (UPI) — A spokesman for Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn confirmed Tuesday afternoon that Atlanta Braves' General Manager Eddie Robinson had asked the commissioner to investigate reports the Philadelphia Phillies have been in touch with Dick Allen.

The Braves paid $5,000 to the Chicago White Sox for the right to try to lure the hard-hitting first baseman out of "retirement."

"Yes, Eddie Robinson has asked the commissioner to look into the matter and it is being looked into," said a spokesman for Kuhn.

New Paltz Grapplers Undefeated in UCAL

RED HOOK — New Paltz High stopped Red Hook with a show of power here Tuesday, staying unbeaten in Ulster County Athletic League wrestling competition with a 42-9 victory.

In a non-league battle in Kingston, the Maroons ended their dual meet season on a winning note by downing Liberty, 27-18.

New Paltz caught the Raiders flat, won all but two weights, and scored four pins in the lopsided affair. Bob McGuire and Bob Kopsick cruised along as expected for the Huggies, but John Savago, Doug Dillon and Tim Rock also came up with bi victories.

Savago stopped Red Hook's

Bruce Rhodes, 6-0, Dillon whipped Raider Andy Karpowich, 5-1 and Rock outpointed Maurice Hryshko, 5-4.

Red Hook's wins came from Mark Kudzy in 167 and Jacques Hryshko in 177.

Rich Sippel completed his dual meet season undefeated with a 7-1 decision over Ken Steele, and the Maroons finished at 10-5 on the year despite a little more resistance from Liberty this time around.

"The score was a little closer," said KHS coach Dean Short. "I guess they had their kids in the right weights." It didn't effect the overall outcome. Phil Brown recorded the lone pin of the match, and Paul Martino and Doug and Ron Reedy came through with decisions. Kingston will see action next at the DCSL meet in Saugerties, February 14 and 15.

Luce Sets High Goal

By United Press International

Don Luce of the Buffalo Sabres, who earned recognition as one of the National Hockey League's best penalty-killers during the 1973-74 season, is after a bigger prize this year.

The 26-year old center, who brings shouts of "Loose, Loose" from Buffalo fans when he skates up ice with the puck, scored his seventh short-handed goal of the season Tuesday night when the Sabres whipped the Detroit Red Wings 6-1.

Luce is now one goal short of the NHL record of eight shorthanded goals in a season set by Dave Keon of Toronto during the 1970-71 season. Only three other players besides Luce have scored seven shorthanded goals in one season.

The goal also was Luce's 25th — one short of his previous single-season high.

Luce's goal came at 9:05 of the second period and was one of five scored by the Sabres as they turned the game into a romp. Rick Dudley, Peter McNab, Fred Stanfield and Jim Lorentz also scored during the outburst.

Toronto defeated St. Louis 5-3, Chicago tied Kansas City 3-3 and Pittsburgh shaded Vancouver 3-2 in other NHL games. In the World Hockey Association, Houston beat Indianapolis 4-3, Edmonton edged Baltimore 1-0 in overtime and San Diego ripped Toronto 8-4.

Leafs 5, Blues 3

Errol Thompson scored two goals in the second period to lead Toronto to its win over St. Louis. Thompson's first goal snapped a 2-2 tie and his second gave the Leafs a 4-2 lead.

Hawks 3, Scouts 3

Penguins 3, Canucks 2

Jean Pronovost scored a pair of goals, including the game winner with 72 seconds left, to lift Pittsburgh over Vancouver. Pronovost scored 35 seconds into the second period and Chuck Arnason made it 2-0. Ab Demarco sliced the lead to 2-1 before Pronovost scored on a long slap shot to put the game away. Gerry Meehan scored for the Canucks 11 seconds later.

Aeros 4, Racers 3

Jim Sherritt had two assists during regulation time and slapped in the winning goal at 1:08 of the overtime period as Houston beat Indianapolis and stretched its lead in the WHA West to eight points over Phoenix. Gordie Howe and his son, Mark, also scored for the Aeros.

Rhinebeck High Rolls

RHINEBECK — Rhinebeck High continued to rumble over opponents in the Bi-Valley League Tuesday night, crushing Dover, 76-44 to remain undefeated after nine games.

Dover tried a man-to-man in the first half then switched to a zone in the second half. Neither did much good. The Indians ate them both up and boosted their lead in every quarter.

Big Ed Vaughn led the winners with a performance that included 22 points and 31 rebounds. Mark Siebold grabbed 11 rebounds and added 14 points, and Paul Sherman and Paul Marvin combined for another 21 points over the Dover zone.

Mark White had 16 to lead Dover.

In a slightly more exciting junior varsity battle, John O'Hand threw in 24 points to spark the Little Indians from a 17 point halftime deficit to a 64-62 victory.

Best Sportsman Award

Club President Charles Goble (L) presents the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club's annual Best Sportsman Award to club director Emerson Mayes at the organization's annual dinner.

Katrine Honors Mayes

KINGSTON
Emerson Mayes, a pioneer mover in the growth of the club, and James Ashdown, were honored at the 39th annual awards dinner of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club at the Holiday Inn.

Mayes, a director of the club, was tapped as the 19th recipient of the coveted Best Sportsman Award. Ashdown, who headed the 1974 pheasant committee, received the club's Achievement Award plaque in recognition of his work in establishing a successful pheasant raising project during the past season.

In his annual report, club president Charles Goble, reviewed the many projects completed during the 1974 season, including purchase of additional acreage for its St. Remy preserve, the clearing of wood lots for hunting, purchase of several pieces of new equipment and the successful completion of a pheasant raising program and hunter-safety session.

Goble reported that club grounds had been surveyed, the game harvest had increased and, in general, new interest was apparent in all phases of the club's activities. He urged continued membership cooperation for the new projects planned, pointing to past achievements through such cooperation.

Goble awarded club patches trimmed with gold to nine club members in recognition of their work on the pheasant project. The list included Lewis Shaw, William Hornbeck, Charles Ruschak, Orrin DeGraff, Emerson Mayes, William Scott, Francis Long, Steve Maidl Sr. and Wilson Lefevre. He noted that Roy Melbert, who died two days before the banquet, was also listed for the honor.

Other speakers included Leslie Hotaling, the club's vice president, who predicted the future of the club would be one of continued progress, and Dorothy Sperle, representing the Ladies Auxiliary, who reported on the status of the women's group and issued an appeal for greater membership.

Peter Keizer, Sr., the banquet chairman, was awarded the annual humorous trophy award. Other humorous awards went to Peter Keizer Jr., Bradley Wilson, William Hornbeck, Charles Goble, Henry Cragan and Joseph Diamond.

Toastmaster Robert Saehloff completed the program by introducing club member, Bradley Wilson and his son, Duane, who sang two songs written especially for the occasion by Duane.

Stone Ridge Library Elects

STONE RIDGE
The election of board members and officers for the Stone Ridge Library for 1975 have been announced.

Reelected to the Board of Trustees were Mrs. Stanley Walker and John Blanchard; Mrs. Robert Diamond and Mrs. Joseph Weglarz were named to the board for the first time.

Officers selected for 1975 were Mrs. Clifford Schoonmaker, president; Mrs. Paul Sturges, vice-president; Mrs.

D. William Daron, treasurer and Mrs. Stanley Walker, secretary.

In her annual report to the board, Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck, librarian, noted that 1974 saw a substantial increase in the library's circulation and the number of borrowers; that another room has been added to the facility and that additional shelving has been installed.

Among 1974's most important activities were a Story Hour for pre-school children conducted by Mrs. Eileen McGregor, the successful Library Fair and celebration of the Library's 65th anniversary. The Library also hosted a workshop for other librarians from Ulster County and participated in the Ulster County Library Association meetings.

Mrs. Robert Kelder, chairman of the 1975 Library Fair, announced that the event will be held Saturday, June 21. The theme will be "Rondout Valley."

Nature's flour makes breads that disappear.

Bread baking is really nothing to be afraid of.

Our one, easy King Arthur recipe will make three of our favorite breads: Rich White, Cheese, and Cinnamon-Raisin.

And all from one dough.

You'll only need four hours or so. (Most of that time, the bread is doing all the work itself!)

And then you'll have delicious, homemade, natural bread that's bound to disappear almost as fast as you can slice it.

Why do we say natural bread?

Well, we don't bleach our flour to make it white. Or add any additives. It's naturally white, and naturally pure. We've made it that way ever since 1790.

That's what makes King Arthur Flour nature's flour.

And it has the higher protein content (gluten) that's so important in baking. (It gives your bread greater volume and better texture.)

So open up a bag of our good King Arthur. And let's bake bread.

Here's what you'll need:

Yield: 3 loaves
2 cups water
1 can (5 1/2 oz.) evaporated milk
1/3 cup oil or margarine
1/4 cup honey or sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
7 to 8 cups King Arthur Flour
Cinnamon-Raisin Filling: (per loaf)
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 cup raisins
Cheese filling: (per loaf)
3 tablespoons grated American cheese (more or less to taste)

Mixing

Combine water, milk and shortening in a saucepan and heat until lukewarm.

Pour into mixing bowl, add honey, salt, yeast, and 2 cups King Arthur Flour.

Beat 2 minutes with an electric beater. Then, stirring by hand, gradually add enough flour until the dough pulls away cleanly from the sides of the bowl.

Kneading

Put dough on a lightly floured board. To knead, fold the far edge of the dough back over on itself toward you. Press into the dough, pushing away with the heels of your hands. Repeat in a continuous rhythm.

(After each push, turn the dough about one-fourth of the way around.)

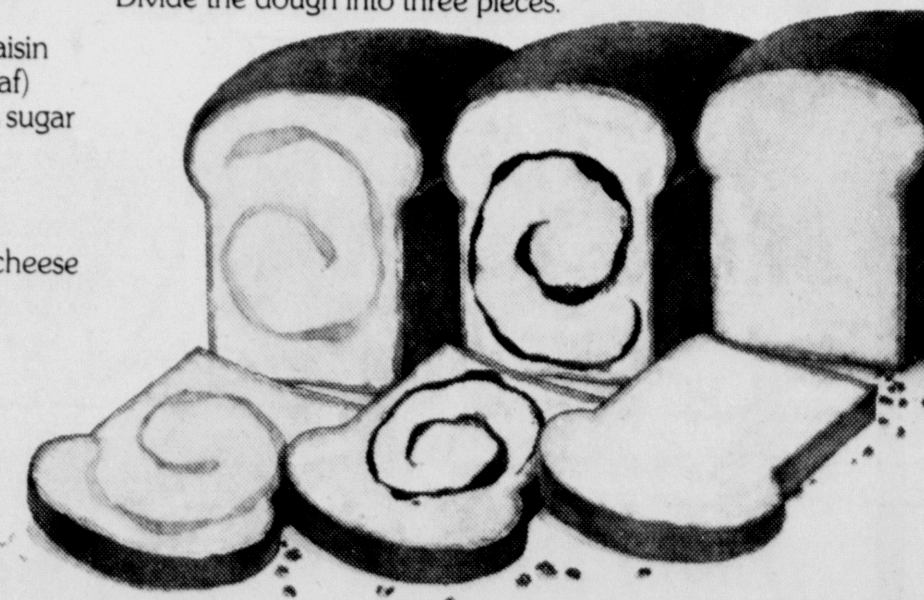

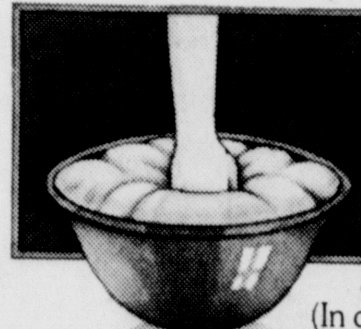

While kneading, sprinkle only enough flour on the board to avoid sticking. Knead for 7 or 8 minutes, or until dough is smooth and elastic and doesn't stick to the board.

Before rising

Round the dough into a smooth ball. Place it in a lightly greased bowl, turning over to grease the entire surface. Cover the bowl with a towel and set in a warm place. (In cooler weather, place the bowl on a heating pad, set on low.) Let dough rise 1-1 1/2 hours or until double in bulk.

After rising

Punch down into the bowl with your fist to break up gas pockets. Divide the dough into three pieces.

SMI Unit at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ Students at a number of New York area colleges, including the State University College at New Paltz, recently formed the Student Mobilization for Israel (SMI).

The SMI is printing and distributing a weekly information sheet dealing with Middle East events called the MidEast Observer, and along with that special information sheets on important events there.

A communications network between campuses is also being set up to allow for quick reaction during political emergencies.

In addition, SMI is also enlisting students to work at civilian jobs in Israel in the event of a general mobilization for war, so that the Israeli economy can be maintained.

It is also the contention of SMI that without immigration to Israel from America "Israel simply will not survive."

Those interested in joining the Aliya Corps of future immigrants to Israel may do so by writing for an application to David Shtylman, c/o the New Paltz Jewish Students Association, Student Union Building, New Paltz, N.Y. 12561, or directly to Student Mobilization for Israel, 505 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

RVHS Seeks Superintendent

STONE RIDGE

The task of selecting a superintendent of Rondout Valley Central Schools to replace retiring Superintendent Robert Robertaccio has begun.

Educational consultant John H. Moehle of Kingston will assist the Rondout Board of Education in the screening process for a new superintendent.

He will formulate plans and procedures to insure the board and the faculty that competent and experienced candidates will apply and be given consideration for the position. It was pointed out, however, that members of the board will make all final decisions concerning the policy of process, evaluation and selection of candidates, and the ultimate appointment. Moehle was designated to receive all inquiries in connection with the position.

Robertaccio retires July of this year. Wayne Kelder, president of the school board, praised Robertaccio for his successful service as the educational leader of the school system and also expressed the board's regret at his decision to retire.

The Successful Man and His Problems

By MARIAN CHRISTY

Richard Egan, the actor who flunked his first screen tests and then went on to star in 100 movies, is talking about the real and created barriers to Success.

"There is that ever-present awesome fear of failure," he says. "You suppress the terror of mulling a major opportunity—and, in a way, you master it. But you're always shadowed by that enormously debilitating feeling that, should you hit the top rung of the ladder, you won't stay there for long."

Egan, 53, a husky best-dressed six-footer, is married to the former Patricia Hardy and is the father of five children ranging in ages from 14 years to two months. Egan, a sensitive type whose elevator moods are constantly on the up-down, says his marriage is happily intact mainly because of his wife's joyous mien.

Egan says: "When I'm in a 'mood,' it doesn't kill everyone in the family because my wife exudes a spirit of energetic optimism. I might be solemn and depressed but it's only raining over my armchair. The rest of the house is still sprinkled with sunshine! My wife creates a general attitude of joy in our home. The joy is consistent. I find that enormously supportive."

The Egan met in Ciro's, a Hollywood nightclub no longer in existence when the host seated them side-by-side on a banquette. "She had this fascinating Irish face and I immediately asked a mutual friend to make an introduction," he says. "But I tell everyone she picked me up." It was Egan's brother Willis, a Jesuit priest who currently teaches religion at Loyola-Marymount University, Los Angeles, who married them. "I didn't see all her virtues in one glance," he says. "But I got the instant, though general, idea that she'd be the perfect counterbalance for me."

It's the small things that cause Egan's downers.

"I get very blue when I think of my own little, unthinking misdemeanors," he says. "The other day I realized that I hadn't seen a friend, a man who's getting very old, in something like six months. But when he was younger and infinitely more spirited, I made it my business to see him twice a week. I got to thinking about the thoughtless inconsistency—and got very, very sad at my obvious shortcoming."

Recently Egan taped a segment for the NBC-TV series, "Police Story." He played the part of a gutsy cop who lost an eye in a dramatic shootout. Producers, impressed with the emotion-packed portrayal, are expanding the role and Egan is expected to be one of the new stars of the continuing series.

"I walked around with a patch over my eye for a long time," says Egan about the self-preparation for the role. "I wanted to sense what life is like when you're half blind. At first I panicked because I couldn't even walk a straight line. Then I began feeling sorry for myself. In the end, I resorted to discipline and convinced myself that I could overcome the damn blot—and suddenly things got into focus."

He is fascinated with depth-to-height experiences.

Egan once met a post office worker whose hand had been blown off by a bomb hidden in a package. Egan questioned him about his emotions during and after the trauma of the tragedy. "He could have hit the bottle," says Egan. "But the metal hook that replaced his hand was his making rather than his undoing. He learned to handle a pistol with the hook and when it came to hitting the bull's eye on a practice range, he was the surest shot. He became the master of the situation, not vice-versa."

Egan, who has been leading man to women who were Hollywood legends in their own time, says that the females he worked with had one trait in common.

"They acquired the ability to survive in a male-oriented world," he says. "They became very tenacious and very determined to pursue the objective of stardom. The outer visage was one of fragile beauty. In reality, these women could trade wits and match brains with any of the studio bosses who sat in those splendid executive suites."

On Lana Turner: "She had the reputation of being a prima donna but I found her to be thoroughly professional. She was always on time. She had ethics about not keeping her colleagues waiting all day. Of course she could give someone a hard time. But, at least, she always did it off the set."

On Susan Hayward: "I once asked her why she looked like she was charging up a hill when all she was doing was walking down a corridor. I also asked her why she acted so tough? 'Buddy,' she said, 'have you ever been hungry?' That honest question had a world of explanation to it. I never mentioned it again."

On Joan Crawford: "If a director wanted a scene shot 10 times, she'd do it 10 times—and without a whimper. On the set, she was the model of seriousness. Off the set, there were enough roses for a funeral and big furs and important phone calls and lots of 'dahlings' waiting in the wings."

Egan says that most actors measure success by the economics of boxoffice draw. "For me, success is an awareness that you tried your best to reach a defined goal and, in the pursuit of it, you didn't disappoint yourself or the ones who love you."

Exhibition by Montessori Students

The children of the Woodstock Montessori School will present an exhibition of their art work on Sunday, Feb. 9, from 1-4 p.m. at the Peter Pan Farm. Under the direction of artist Sandra Buhalis, the show will include drawings and paintings by all the children in the school, ages three to 10.

Mrs. Buhalis' approach in her art classes involves verification of the child as an individual with a vast creative potential, the Life department learned. Once this potential is activated, she believes the child needs knowledge of such problems in art as space, color, and form. "This knowledge then enables the child to give order to his personal experiences and discoveries. The children's studies begin by drawing in motion and movement and defining shape and form. These are the foundations for their work involving color and space," the art teacher says.

Mrs. Buhalis began her study of art in high school and attended Michigan State University. She then did concentrated work at the Art School of the Society of Arts & Crafts in Detroit and also attended Silvermine College in New Canaan, Conn. She has exhibited her work in the Midwest and New York and is represented in many private collections.

The public is invited to attend the children's exhibit and reception at the Woodstock Montessori School located at Peter Pan Farm, juncture Glasco Turnpike and John Joy Road.

Pinocchio With Italian Setting

The Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre will present a Prince Street Players production of the classic children's tale "Pinocchio" on Saturday, Feb. 8 at 2:15 p.m. in Aquinas Hall Theatre, on the college's Newburgh campus.

"Pinocchio," the story of a little wooden puppet who longed to become a real boy, will be performed with costumes, sets and music that are in keeping with the original Italian setting. The cast will portray such well-known characters as Gepetto the shoemaker, the title role, and the Blue Fairy.

In addition to a year-round theatrical touring schedule, the Prince Street Players have won national acclaim for children's television plays produced for the CBS network. In 1966, the acting company received a special Emmy award "for providing television audiences with imaginative children's entertainment of high production quality."

Mom Should Keep Bugs Out of Ears

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a very nice, but extremely shy 17-year-old son. He has never had a date in his life, and I'm sure it's because he's afraid he'll get turned down.

He is an A-B student, but doesn't do very well in sports, which could be the reason he isn't very popular with the "in" crowd at school.

He is slightly overweight, but there are fatter boys who seem to hit it off with girls, so that can't be the reason.

It breaks my heart to see him alone all the time. A girls' club is having a dance, and the girls ask the boys. One of my best friends has a daughter in this club. Should I put a bug in my friend's ear and ask her to ask her daughter to ask my son? He wouldn't have to know I arranged it.

SORRY FOR SONNY
DEAR SORRY: Don't put any bugs in anybody's ear. Your son may be a late bloomer. And another one of his problems could be a well-meaning mother who's inclined to run interference for him. Let him develop socially at his own pace.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from the girl who lied. I wondered if sometime in her life she was forced to lie. Let me tell you my story.

When I was very young, I found that if I told the truth when my mother questioned me about a mischievous act, I would get a spanking, so naturally, to escape the spanking, I lied. She was a strict disciplinarian (she meant well, but her method was all wrong), so in order to get along with her I lied until I was 28 years old, when I married and had my own home.

When mother visited me for the first time, she asked me a question, and knowing that the truth would displease her, I lied. I felt like a child, and right then and there I made a vow that I would never lie to her again. Also I made a vow that I would never live with anyone I had to lie to in order to get along with. I'm 48 now, and I've kept both vows.

I know that some of my answers don't please the questioner, but I always tell the truth. I've often wondered who will account for the lying I did for the first 28 years of my life.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: There is only one reason people lie. It's because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. More emphasis should be placed on truthfulness, and less on punishment.

DEAR ABBY: I was very angry after reading your reply to the woman who refused to use birth control because it goes against the teachings of the Catholic faith. There is no reason why people should question anyone having a large family. The number of children a couple should have should be left up to the individual couple. As this woman pointed out, she is asking no one's assistance in the upbringing of her children.

In my opinion, many people are limiting the size of their families not only because of their concern for the world, but because if Mom has too many children then she may not be able to work for some time, which may mean not having the latest car model, and the children won't be able to go to camp, and Mom won't be able to have new furniture for the house.

If people are happy living like this so be it. However, if they want a large family with a lot more responsibilities, which in their opinion means a lot more fulfillment, then it's their business.

Dr. Lamb

How Much 'C' Is Needed?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to ask you about vitamin C. Just how much vitamin C is considered an overdose? I have been giving my three sons, ages 9, 11 and 15, a 500-milligram tablet plus a regular multiple vitamin which contains 60 milligrams of vitamin C every morning. Unless they are just slowly outgrowing colds and respiratory problems, it seems they get fewer and less severe colds and other ailments now.

Also my mother, age 62, was told by a doctor to take vitamin C because of frequent colds, but she is confused as to whether to take 250 milligrams or 500 milligrams.

DEAR READER — Both the statements about how harmful vitamin C could be and how helpful it is have been grossly overdone in typical human excess.

At this date some studies suggest that vitamin C does help prevent the severity of colds and similar ailments, but there is serious doubt that large doses actually prevent colds. Most people would be happy with anything that shortened the duration of such illnesses and made them less severe.

Once the body becomes saturated with the water soluble vitamins the excess just runs out. It is like filling a cup with water. Once it is full the rest runs over.

In general, to use vitamin C for colds and similar illnesses, I think you need from 250 to 1000 milligrams a day. Less than 250 probably won't help much and more than 1000 won't give any added benefit. Even 250 milligrams a day is far above the recommended daily amounts needed for sound nutrition. I don't think anyone is going to have any trouble from doses of 1000 milligrams a day or less.

The amounts you are using for your boys are fine. I think it is better to give vitamin C in divided doses each day if that isn't too inconvenient; say 250 milligrams twice a day or, if an adult wants to take larger doses, perhaps 250 milligrams four times a day or even 500 milligrams twice a day.

I am not convinced that those huge doses of three or four grams (3000 to 4000 milligrams) at the onset of an illness are either beneficial or wise. Most people have already had the infection for several days before they have symptoms of a cold, so you can't really start these large doses at the onset of the illness. A daily dose of 250 milligrams is probably enough for most people in terms of decreasing the severity of colds and infectious illnesses.

Remember, colds are infectious diseases, meaning they are caused by germs, and are contagious. It is true that as children get older their tendency to get such illnesses is decreased. They develop some natural immunity and that helps a lot.

Parents of young school children have far more colds than parents who no longer have school children living at home. All public contact is a means of spreading colds.

I'd also like to say a few words that may seem old fashioned, but their is nothing wrong with fresh orange juice and other fresh fruits and vegetables as sources of vitamin C if they are used in sufficient quantity. I kind of like food and think it is a good way to get your vitamins. It also tastes better than pills.

Handy Sandwich

Beef cubed steaks make tempting sandwiches in a matter of minutes. Keep this in mind to meet holiday emergencies when unexpected friends drop in. To prepare the sandwiches, brown 4 beef cubed steaks in fat and place each on a slice of bread. Top each with a tablespoon of a mixture of 1/4 cup each of grated Cheddar cheese and mayonnaise. Place on rack in broiler pan about 2 inches from the heat. Broil just long enough to melt cheese and brown mixture lightly. Place an onion ring, tomato slice and green pepper ring on each steak.

Bergman Refuses Panel Appearance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bernard Bergman, a key figure in a U.S. Senate subcommittee investigation of nursing home abuses, refused to appear before the panel and his accountant pleaded to questions concerning his employer's finances.

In another dramatic development Tuesday at the second hearing by the Senate subcommittee on Long Term Care, State Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut refused to deny asking Assemblyman Andrew Stein to drop a state investigation into Bergman's activities.

Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the subcommittee, said he would begin contempt of Congress proceedings against Bergman for failing to appear a second time before the panel. He testified before the subcommittee on Jan. 21.

"We will seek to have him cited for contempt of Congress for failing to come," Moss told Nathan Lewin, Bergman's lawyer. Lewin said his client, who allegedly has interests in more than 100 nursing homes nationwide, had "no legal obligation to honor the subpoena."

Earlier in the day, an accountant for Bergman invoked the Fifth Amendment, and gave only his name and office address — Samuel Dachowitz, 75 W. 23rd St. He read a statement which read in part, "I respectfully decline to testify..."

Steingut repeatedly told the panel, "I have no recollection," when asked if he told Stein to back off on looking into Bergman's activities.

However, he declined to state categorically that no conversations with Stein about Bergman ever took place.

Meanwhile, two state auditors testified that the chaotic condition of financial records at one home owned by Bergman, the Towers Nursing Home, made it impossible to determine why "a total of $2,220,816.67 was missing and not recorded in the books."

Sullivan Historian Dead at 50

MONTICELLO — Manville B. Wakefield, 50, author, painter and historian, died this morning at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello, where he had been hospitalized for about a week.

Two of his books dealt with traveling in the Catskills in earlier days: To the Mountains by Rail concerning the Ontario and Western Railroad; and Coalboats to Tidewater, about the Delaware and Hudson Canal. He was working with Wawarsing town Historian Katherine Terwilliger on a book about Revolutionary times in the area. Mr. Wakefield was Sullivan County Historian and president of the Sullivan County Bicentennial Commission.

He was chairman of the commercial art department at Sullivan County Community College and had completed two-thirds of a huge mural in the college library illustrating scenes from Sullivan County History. The last section was to have been completed during the next two years.

Mr. Wakefield has been listed in Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who in the East, and in 1972 he received an award from the American Association of State and Local History for his "exceptional combination of talents in preserving local history."

NOW? (Q.) Hi! Well, I was wondering about something. See, my boyfriend is in the Army. Right now he's home on leave. I love him very much, but he will be gone for three and a half years and I will hardly get to see him at all. He wants to get married, but I say no, because of school and also I'm ONLY 15. (He's 17.) I would like your advice.

— Wondering in Texas
(A.) I can understand your friend's feelings, but both of you would be wiser to wait. This would be true even if you and he were two or three years older than you are. He will change much in the next few years and so will you.

By then, both of you should have a much better idea of what you want in life.

THREAT: (Q.) I'm dead scared and don't know what to do. I am dating Thomas, and last night he showed me a card that said:

"I don't date girls who say 'Don't,' 'No,' and 'Quit it.' " I keep saying "No" and "Don't" to him but he does what he wants anyway. He is 19 and I am 14. I need help fast. I hope he won't make me pregnant. — Not Listened To in Louisiana (A.) Thomas is using an old, old threat on you: If you don't do as he wants you won't get any more dates with him.

This is a cheap trick, and Thomas is a cheap boy. He is also far too old for you.

Stop dating him. Now. Immediately.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

West North East South

Pass 2♥ Pass 1♥

Pass Pass Pass 4♥

Opening lead — J♠

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

As anyone who looks at all 52 cards can see, South is going to wind up one trick short at his four-heart contract. West can take his ace of trumps and lead a second spade to give his partner a ruff after which start it will be a cinch for East to take his two aces.

Can South do anything about it? Not if the defense doesn't falter, but South can try to deceive his opponents. As a starter which high spade should he use at trick one? Clearly the queen is not the right one to play. The average false-carder wins with the ace. That also is wrong. West is very likely to lead a second spade. South's best bet is to win with the king. That play will show the ace but not the queen and might encourage a shift.

South should play the king of spades at trick one and lead a trump. Clearly not the king. The king play will get the ace to come right up. How about the 10 or even the six? Too apparent an attempt at deception. West will know that South holds higher trumps.

So we find the right one to lead is the queen. West may think that South holds six trumps to queen-jack-10 and is trying to bump the ace and king together. For this reason West may duck.

Not too likely against alert opponents, but the best try he can make.

MARGARET THATCHER . . . ON THRESHOLD

(UPI)

Grocer's Daughter May Be Next Tory Prime Minister

LONDON (UPI) — A toughminded woman politician stands a good chance of being Britain's next Conservative prime minister.

Margaret Thatcher, who served as Education Minister in the Tory government of 1970-74, defeated former Prime Minister Edward Heath in Tuesday's voting for the post of leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Heath promptly resigned, leaving Mrs. Thatcher the front-runner going into another round of voting. London bookmakers quoted her as a 5-4 favorite.

If she wins, she could lead the Conservative party into the next general elections — which may not come before October, 1979 — and if victorious could be Europe's first woman prime minister.

But Mrs. Thatcher still has a long way to go. Conservative party chairman William Whitelaw, 56, a Heath ally, has announced he is running for the post in the second round next Tuesday.

The party's employment spokesman, James Prior, 47, said he, too, was considering running, as were a number of other prominent party figures.

Mrs. Thatcher, a grocer's daughter who worked her way through Oxford and was a research chemist before going into law and politics, did not appear overawed by the possibility of such opposition.

Despite her matronly appearance, the mother of 21-year-old twins made her reputation as an abrasive, tough-minded, ambitious politician and government minister.

"I believe we can win in the second or third ballot," she said.

The bookmakers thought so too. They made Whitelaw an even odds bet and quoted 10-4 against Prior, if he decides to run.

Mrs. Thatcher won her first parliamentary race in 1959, after losing twice. Ideologically she stands to Heath's right, speaking for the traditional virtues of thrift, hard work, ability and enterprise.

As education secretary in the Heath government she was obliged by a cabinet decision to defend the halting of free milk for school children.

Angry mothers picketed her home, shouting "Margaret Thatcher, milk snatcher."

"In politics," she once said, "you have to be tough to survive."

Amnesty Extension . . . A Fizzle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The month-long extension of President Ford's amnesty program has started off with a big fizzle.

The program was scheduled to end Jan. 31. Officials had long predicted the closing days would erupt in a torrent of volunteers — a combination of the lazy who put off applying earlier and the fearful who had waited to see if there were any tricks.

As expected, the Armed Forces Clemency center at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., was overwhelmed last week with an average of 141 volunteers each day. But this Monday only six men showed up.

At the Justice Department, which handles the part of the program for draft evaders at large, a spokesman said, "our calls have ground to a halt."

The third part is the Clemency Board, empowered to wipe clean the slates of men convicted of desertion or draft resistance. A spokesman said the board was still engulfed in mail.

Part of President's Quick-Cut Tax Bill Vote Down Move on Depletion Allowance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has voted down the year's first effort to end the oil depletion allowance. It had been added to President Ford's quick-cut tax bill.

The House Rules Committee also separated another doublebarreled measure Monday, a delay in Ford's $3 per barrel oil import fee and a $36 billion increase in the national debt.

The unsuccessful tactic was to force the President to accept legislation he did not like because he wanted and needed the other measures so badly that he would not veto them.

Ways and Means had attached the oil import delay to the national debt increase. Sources said the Democrats feared the tactic would backfire and they would be unable to override a veto, so on Monday the Rules committee decided the measures will be voted on separately.

The Ways and Means Committee voted 22-14 Monday against an effort by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., to attach a repeal of the $2.6 billion oil industry tax break to a pending quick tax cut bill.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore, urged the committee to delay consideration of the depletion allowance until the committee takes up an energy tax package later this month. He said the depletion allowance issue would bog down a tax cut bill which he said is needed rapidly to stimulate the economy.

Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., told the committee it was far past time to close "the single largest loophole that exists," particularly because it was considering business tax cuts which could mean a $200 million break for Exxon. In the final vote, Democrats voted 14-10 for repeal, but the 12 Republicans voted unanimously against the Gibbons proposal.

Several liberals voted against repeal now although they said they would vote for it later.

The committee has completed the first portion of its tax cut bill — an $8.4 reduction in withholding rates, brought about by increasing the standard deduction and granting what amounts to a negative income tax of 5 percent for everyone making up to $4,000 to $6,000 — even if they pay no tax.

Yet to be decided are the exact size of a one-time rebate and who will receive it, along with business tax incentives. Ford requested a $12 billion straight rebate, but said in Atlanta Tuesday he felt he could go along with the committee.

Felony Charges for Indians

SHAWANO, Wis. (UPI) —

Five of the Indians who took over a Roman Catholic abbey for 34 days, including the group's leader, have been charged with felonies — robbing or threatening the caretaker of the building during the occupation.

All the other Indians taken into custody at the end of the occupation were accused of lesser charges Tuesday or released.

Twenty-eight Indians were charged with disorderly conduct and trespassing, both misdemeanors. Nine minors were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Authorities who prepared the charges said the caretaker and two friends were robbed of cash and goods during the early hours of the takeover New Year's Day by five of the Indians. The caretaker and his family also had their lives threatened, authorities said.

The 33 members of the militant Menominee Warrior Society were brought into court Tuesday. Michael E. Sturdevant, 30, the so-called "general" of the society, brought shouts from backers in a verbal confrontation with County Judge Michael Eberlein.

Sturdevant, through his attorney, asked for permission to address the bench, and Eberlein said, "If you're going to abuse the court or law enforcement officers, I'm not going to permit it."

"If anyone's been abused, I think it's the Indians," said Sturdevant. Eberlein cut him off, and Sturdevant said, "The only way you're going to keep me shut up is to kill me."

Sturdevant, John Perote,

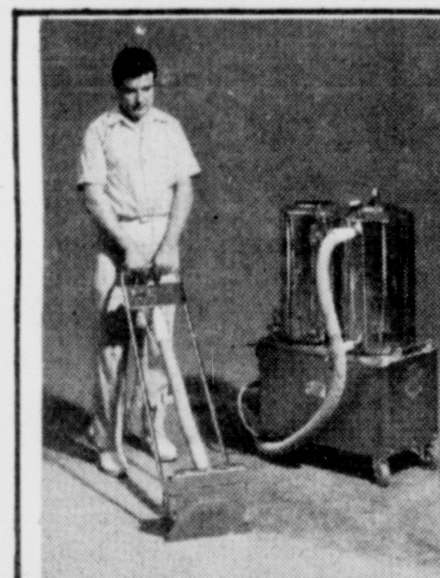

28, Robert Chevalier, 24, and Doreen Dixon, 18, all of Neopit, Wis., and John Waubanasum Jr., 26, Green Bay, Wis., were charged with armed robbery, burglary, and false imprisonment. In addition, Perote and Waubanasum were accused of threatening the life of caretaker Joseph Plonka.

An Open Letter To The Public From Henry Block Of H&R Block Regarding Income Tax Rebates.

Following the announcement of President Ford's proposed income tax rebate plan for individuals, I recommended an alternate plan to both the President and Congressional leaders. I believe my plan is more equitable and would maximize the economic impact. Here's how I compare the two plans:

THE FORD PLAN:

1. Would give flat 12 percent rebates totaling $12 billion.
2. Would give a maximum $1,000 rebate to those with an income tax of $8,333. (Most taxpayers with incomes of $40,000 or more would receive a $1,000 rebate.)
3. Would give the largest rebates to those who are least likely to spend the money.
4. Would base the tax rebate on the amount of the 1974 tax paid.

THE BLOCK PLAN:

1. Would give graduated declining percentage rebates totaling an amount to be determined by Congress.
2. Would give a maximum 40% tax rebate at lowest income levels declining to zero for those with an Adjusted Gross Income in excess of $40,000.
3. Would give the largest rebates to low and middle income persons most in need of tax relief and most likely to spend the money.
4. Would base the tax rebate percentage on Adjusted Gross Income and then apply it to the tax...eliminating additional tax advantage to those already benefiting from tax shelters.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

WRITE THE PRESIDENT, YOUR REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATORS — Make your views known, whichever plan you prefer. They are the ones who will pass and approve such legislation.

FILE EARLY — The Internal Revenue Service is urging taxpayers to file their returns early. It is likely that the sooner the return is filed the sooner the taxpayer will receive any rebate permitted by new legislation. And, if you are entitled to a regular tax refund . . . the sooner you file, the sooner you will receive it.

If you have any questions about your income taxes . . . visit or call any one of our more than 7,000 offices nationwide. There is never a charge for tax information or for answering your questions.
